Nazis Tighten Grip In Czechoslovakia

GERMAN PARTY GAINS POWER IN PARLIAMENT

Followers of Hitler Disciple Become Largest Minority In Government.

COALITION NOW FORESEEN

British Cabinet Decides It Will Not Commit Itself In Central Europe.

(By International News Service)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia —Czechoslovakian ties with Chancellor Hitler's expanding German reich were tightened today as Konrad Henlein's militant Sudeten Nazi German party assumed control of the largest bloc in this nation's parliament.

The Nazis won this victory by persuading the Agrarian league to withdraw from Premier Milan Hodza's government. The Agrarian league, another German minority party, immediately entered the ranks of the Sudeten Nazis, giving Henlein's followers 49 seats in the chamber of deputies.

Hodza's party now controls only 45 of the chamber's 300 seats. It can still wield the reins of government, however, because of a coalition with most of the 13 other Czechoslovakian parties represented in parliament.

Expected to Line Up Others.

With Henlein now leader of the strongest single political group in the nation, other German minority parties were expected to join forces with him.

It was believed Henlein's political coup would speed the showdown between Czechoslovakia and Germany over Hitler's demands that complete autonomy be granted Germans in Czechoslovakia and his desire that the Prague government abandon its alliance with Soviet Russia.

A statement announcing the action of the Agrarians said the cabinet had failed to solve the German minority problem when it gave Germans the right to be represented in the central government and local administrations.

Britain Steers Shy of New Commitments.

LONDON—(U.P.)—The cabinet, at a two-hour meeting today, confirmed the government's policy of keeping out of trouble in central Europe and approved a declaration on Britain's foreign policy which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will deliver in the house of commons tomorrow.

PLOT FOILED

Convicts Fail to Free 150, One Falls 50 Feet.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(UP)—Two long term convicts, after failing to release 150 other inmates, made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to escape from the penitentiary here today by sliding down a power line.

James Wadlow, 33, serving 15 years from St. Louis for robbery, fell 50 feet from the electric wire to a pile of rocks. He was injured seriously, Warden Sanders said. This was Wadlow's third attempt to escape.

His cellmate and confederate in the break, Randy K. Reaves, 28, serving life from Hannibal for criminal assault, went back to his cell after seeing Wadlow fall to the ground.

President Roosevelt popularized the "fireside chat" but it took the want ads to popularize the old "fireside chair". They buy and sell hundreds of them daily, also stoves and all other kinds of comforts such as homes, used cars and fur coats. Turn over a new leaf, turn to the want ads and you'll "turn-up" a bargain.

New Mechanized Mills at Empire Go Into Operation

SPRING DUE TO TRY COMEBACK

It'll Get Warm Again Friday But Mercury Skids Tonight to 40's; High Here 81.

The interval of "summer" which brought a record mercury reading of 81 degrees to Mansfield yesterday will give way to "much cooler weather" tonight, but spring will stage a comeback Friday, the weather bureau predicted.

A brisk thunderstorm and high winds which struck Mansfield about 7 p. m. yesterday dropped the temperature 25 degrees to 56 above and soaked the city in .51 of an inch of rain. The reading at noon today was 62.

There will be no "cold wave" and even little prospect of freezing temperatures, the forecast said, although the mercury is expected to be near the 40-degree mark by tomorrow morning. Temperatures probably will begin rising as the weather clears Thursday, the forecasters said.

Yesterday's reading of 81 about 2 p. m. was the highest on record in the city for March 22, Observer Otto Sprunger said.

It was warmer in virtually every Ohio city yesterday than in Miami, Fla., which had a high of 80 degrees. Youngstown and Dayton, with readings of 84 degrees, topped the state, while Cleveland and Toledo sweltered in 83-degree heat despite lake breezes. Columbus had 82 degrees and Cincinnati reported 81.

Steel Sheets Turned Out By New Mills at Empire

Mechanized Units In Normal Operation; Installation Accomplished In Record Time.

Installation of the latest in steel finishing equipment at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company in the record time of 89 days was regarded by Empire officials today as an unsurpassed engineering feat.

The equipment—a break down mill unit, automatic charging furnaces and an automatic conveyor system—is now in normal operation at Empire's south plant.

Claims for a record installation are based by Empire officials on installation of similar equipment at other plants. Trade journals complimented engineers for completing similar installations in 120 days—31 more days than was required here.

First Step In Program.

The $250,000 project completed here marks the first step in Empire's rehabilitation and mechanization program planned to put the company in a more favorable position to meet a keenly competitive market. President James M. Hill says. Modernization of equipment is necessary to accomplish this, he added.

Installation of the equipment was supervised by George R. Roemer, brother of Henry A. Roemer, chairman of Empire's board of directors. George Roemer is chief

HOPE FADING

Levine Indicates Kidnaped Son Might Be Dead.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(INS)—One month ago today, 12-year-old Peter Levine, son of Murray Levine, well-to-do lawyer, was kidnaped near his home here.

Today, the distraught father, for the first time, gave expression to fear that his son might be dead.

Several notes, reportedly demanding $30,000 ransom, have been received by Levine but in spite of the attorney's promise to pay the money with no questions asked for return of the child the kidnapers have not shown their hand.

Survey of Postoffice Begins As First Step Toward Addition

A survey was under way today of the Mansfield postoffice building and grounds, preparatory to the drafting of plans for a $180,000 addition to the present structure.

Nelson Greller, construction engineer from the federal treasury department, is in Mansfield, making pictures and drawings of the postoffice building and grounds, and the property to the east, owned by the Mansfield Mutual Fire Insurance company, which the government is seeking to purchase for the construction of the addition.

Greller will turn his data over to architects who will prepare plans for the remodeling and enlarging of the building. He said the start of actual work would depend on whether the government is able to acquire the insurance company's property at a satisfactory figure.

A congressional sub-committee recommended some time ago that condemnation proceedings be started to acquire the land, believing the price asked by the company was excessive. The company had asked $60,000, a third of the entire improvement appropriation, it was learned. Company officials said the offer was a tentative one. Postal authorities said the company's figure was three times the value of the property as listed for taxation.

Greller, who expects to complete his survey this week, said construction would probably take six months after the property is acquired.

TACKLE RELIEF FINANCING PLAN

Auditor, Solicitor Seek Date In Columbus, Aim to Avoid Special Election.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley and Solicitor Marion D. Ward went to Columbus today to tackle an angle of relief financing.

Although neither would disclose the exact purpose of the mission, it was believed they were seeking information that might permit the city to develop a temporary method of financing relief and at the same time avoid a special election on the issuance of relief bonds, permitting that question to go on the August primary ballot.

Additional reason for believing this to be the case was seen in council's failure, at a special meeting last night, to discuss a special relief bond election. At Kelley's request, council deferred action on legislation that would have transferred $4,000 to the relief fund. A special election would have cost about $3,500.

Kelley's explanation in asking that action be deferred was that there was no immediate need for funds.

He pointed out that the monthly allocation from the state was more than sufficient to take care of administrative costs and that road bills would not be forthcoming until the middle of next month.

With the problem of an immediate bond issue temporarily ignored by council and a request for additional police before that group along with the recent agitation for extensive extensions in the water distribution system in Woodland, it appeared that the attorney general might be consulted on the question of seeking a levy at the primaries to cover the cost of all three.

CITY HURRIES TO BEGIN WPA JOBS

Officials In Columbus to Seek Release of Federal Funds; 550 WPA Workers Idle.

With work on four Richland county projects halted because of the lack of federal funds and 550 WPA workers out of work, city officials hurried to WPA headquarters in Columbus today seeking release of funds to re-open current projects and to start new ones.

A delegation of city officials, headed by Mayor Claude M. Hunter left this morning for Columbus to present to WPA officials a $65,000 work program approved by council in special session last night.

The program, which has already been approved by WPA includes a $33,000 sidewalk repair project, an $18,000 curb and gutter replacement program, $11,000 water extension project and a $1,500 street widening project. All that is needed now is to obtain a release of funds to start them.

The four WPA projects which have been operating in the county were closed today because federal funds had been exhausted. City officials said they had no assurance as to when the funds would be forthcoming to resume work on the projects. This is one of the answers they will seek in Columbus today.

Projects closed down included the $80,000 Bellville sewer job, a $143,00 county bridge project, the $65,000 Shelby street improve-

HUNT 3 BODIES

Searchers Comb Swamp For 2 Men, Girl In Air Crash.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. —(INS)—Rescuers battled through deep swamplands today to recover the bodies of two men and a girl killed last night as their cabin monoplane crashed and burst into flames.

The plane crashed shortly after it took off for the return trip to its South Bend, Ind., base.

The dead were: Fred Warton, South Bend transport pilot. George Heppler, South Bend; an unidentified young woman, believed a South Bend resident.

Charles Keller, another South Bend youth who flew here with the party yesterday, was not in the plane when it crashed.

Deputy sheriffs beginning the fight through the swampland said they expected to have difficulty returning the bodies through the marshes.

ROOSEVELT TELLS LAWMAKERS WHY HE FIRED MORGAN

President Says Power to Investigate TVA Administration 'Clearly' Rests With Congress; Legal Opinion on Ouster Move Upheld By Jackson.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Sen. H. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) attempted to call up a Tennessee Valley Authority investigation resolution in the senate today but was blocked by the objection of Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.)

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, advising congress today that he had ousted Arthur E. Morgan from TVA, said it was "clearly the right" of the legislature to make "any fair inquiry" into TVA's administration or policies.

"But I cannot in the meanwhile," he said, "abdicate my constitutional duty to take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

Mr. Roosevelt ordered Morgan's removal from the Tennessee Valley Authority chairmanship, yesterday, to become effective today. Simultaneously the president announced the elevation of Harcourt A. Morgan, now vice-chairman, to the chairmanship.

His message on TVA made no recommendation for filling the vacancy on the board, but some informed persons believed he would nominate James L. Fly, TVA general counsel.

With his message, Mr. Roosevelt sent to the capitol a letter from Robert H. Jackson, the acting attorney general, upholding the president's right to remove TVA board members from office.

Jackson, outlining the case in a letter dated March 18, said charges of "dishonesty and want of integrity" had been made against Directors Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal by the chairman, who then openly defied the president's "constitutional authority" by refusing to answer "reasonable inquiries concerning the situation existing in the authority."

Cites Removal Power.

"I think I may state," Jackson said, "it is an unassailable proposition that if any of these charges is established, the power of removal ought to exist.

"Furthermore, the Tennessee Valley Authority being an executive agency, performing executive functions, and therefore in the executive branch of the government, the power of removal ought to be in the president."

The president's message text follows:

To the congress of the United States:

I transmit herewith for the information of the congress my opinion setting forth the reasons which impelled me to remove Arthur E. Morgan, and my letter to him removing him, as a member and chairman of the board of the Tennessee Valley Authority. I further transmit the opinion of the attorney general in regard to my power to remove for cause members of the board of the Tennessee Valley Authority. I also append the transcript of the hearings which were had before me on March 11, 18 and 21, 1938, and which I think merit the serious consideration of all those interested in the TVA. I have filed my letter to Arthur E. Morgan and the transcript of the hearings, together with all exhibits marked for identification in the transcript, with the secretary of state.

It is clearly the right of the congress to undertake at any time any fair inquiry into the administration of the Tennessee Valley Authority or its policies which the congress may deem in the public interest. But I cannot in the meanwhile abdicate my constitutional duty to take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

Lists Findings.

I call the attention of the congress to the fact that on the evi-

Morgan's Home Town Wonders About Chicago 'Business Trip'

BULLETIN

CHICAGO—(INS)—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted TVA chairman, eluded reporters today on his arrival here presumably to confer with attorneys on his plans to challenge the president's power to dismiss him.

(By Associated Press)

YELLOW SPRINGS—Residents of this college town speculated as they met on street corners or elsewhere today over the purpose of a "business trip" taken abruptly by Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Morgan boarded a train for Chicago last night after addressing a gathering of about 500 persons on the campus of Antioch college, of which he formerly was president. The gathering was composed of students, townspeople and a smattering of non-residents, observers said.

The 59-year-old engineer did not refer in the talk to his defiance of the president's authority to remove him from the TVA board but mentioned at one point that he was "feeling rather relaxed tonight."

Morgan was non-committal concerning his departure after spending only a few hours at home. A son, Ernest, said his father was making a business trip.

Morgan's son said that his father might reply directly to the president in answer to a telegram from the White House confirming his dismissal. Morgan read the telegram to the campus audience.

Earlier he had commented with a terse "Well, that's that!" on his removal from the TVA.

Mr. Roosevelt had given Morgan until 2:30 p. m. yesterday to state "any reason" why he should not be removed. At that hour the raw-boned six-footer was chopping trees at his home.

'Selfishness of Few' Hit By Roosevelt In Georgia Speech

(By Associated Press)

GAINESVILLE, Ga.—President Roosevelt declared today that national progress and prosperity "are being held back chiefly because of selfishness on the part of a few."

In a prepared outdoor address replete with fresh attacks on "special privilege" and the "feudal system," which he ranked with fascism, the chief executive also bluntly told Georgia and the lower south that their wages were "far too low."

He called for "co-operation all along the line" to rebuild the nation on sounder lines.

"We propose to go forward and not back," he said.

Stopping here en route from Washington to Warm Springs, Ga., for a ten-day rest, the president dedicated Roosevelt square, center of Gainesville's resurrection, with federal aid, from a disastrous tornado two years ago.

Gainesville's co-operation in the rebuilding, he said, presented a principle which if applied to national problems would "amply solve our national needs."

Mr. Roosevelt then declared prosperity was being retarded by a "selfish" minority who believe in a "different theory of government," give little though to the "one third ill fed, ill clad and ill

Isn't it rather extreme for New York to give up horses and motorize its milk wagons?

The Shrunken Reich.

THOUGH Nazi Germany begins to look formidable again, she has far to go yet before she becomes as fearsome as she was in 1914. The kaiser's Germany had the Triple Alliance which included not only Italy but the whole Austro-Hungarian Empire, plus a friendly line-up with Bulgaria, Rumania and the Turkish Empire, which was far greater then than it is now.

All of those allies and associates helped her with armies and supplies. Moreover, Germany at that time was far better prepared for war, with comparatively more armament, more cash and credit and more economic resources, than she has now.

German strength, too, at that time was an inherent, organic power, pervading the nation and its whole economy. German strength today is centered, as it never was before, chiefly in one man. No one can say what would happen to Germany, in war or peace, if anything happened to Adolf Hitler.

Most of those minor allies of a quarter-century ago are today fiercely determined on their own independence, and would be more likely to join a new alliance of free powers on the North and Baltic seas against Nazi Germany than to line up with her. The democratic powers, under the leadership of France and Britain, would be against her more definitely perhaps than they were before. Russia, aligned with Britain and France, and stronger than she was under the czars, would bring terror to Germany's eastern front.

All that the free nations need to do this time, to avoid destruction by Fascism and Hitlerism is to stand together.

Marine Road.

IT IS GOOD NEWS to thousands of tourists that the new highway to Key West, along the Florida keys from the mainland, is finished.

This is perhaps the most difficult and costly roadbuilding job ever tackled in America. The viaduct of concrete and steel stretches like a chain, nearly 100 miles long, in great spans and arches, ending in the beautiful little island that forms the southernmost point of the United States. This is described as "the only sea-going highway in the world." It completes the famous United States Highway No. 1, following the eastern seaboard southward from Kent in northern Maine. That makes a wonderful drive for motorists who like to follow the sea on dry land.

There will be a still more wonderful tour when the highway is completed from the Alaskan peninsula to Puget Sound. Then a tourist can drive continuously nearly all the way from the Arctic Circle to our most southern outpost in the tropical gulf.

President McCormack.

THE MOST interesting feature of St. Patrick's day, celebrated in America with as much gusto as ever, was the announcement by John McCormack, the famous Irish tenor, that he was a candidate for the presidency of the Irish Free State.

This seemed, at first blush, a very presumptuous thing, because he would take the place held now by De Valera, founder of the new Ireland and a proved statesman of great ability. As McCormack explains, however, De Valera is expected under the new constitution to become prime minister, continuing his present functions as administrative head of the government. The presidency hereafter will be merely a formal office, like that of the president of France, whose chief function is to deliver addresses and sign papers.

McCormack would make a picturesque and ornamental president, and it might not seem incongruous to have, at the head of an intensely race-conscious Gaelic nation, a bard who can sing its songs so well.

The singer admits that there may be a technical obstacle in his way. He happens to be a naturalized American citizen. Presumably he would have to regain his Irish citizenship.

Merry Arctic Adventures.

THREE sentences from Ivan Papanin's story of the Russian scientists' experience on that Arctic ice floe are interesting as they reveal the detachment with which the men regarded their situation. They had dreaded their adventure a little beforehand, he confesses. But once they faced actual danger all trace of fear vanished.

With a wild blizzard raging, and ice breaking and roaring around them, they worked to rescue such provisions as they could. A big crack just outside their storehouse door opened a bottomless stream into which they might easily have fallen. But they chopped a hole in the roof and moved the stuff away quickly. The next serious fissure appeared right under their dwelling tent, and again they moved quickly. In the meantime, the direction of the floe's movement was constantly changing. Writes Papanin:

"Yet we worked merrily together," and again "Steel nerves were necessary to keep one's balance on such a whirling carousel." and finally, "We could have remained three months longer if the ice breakers had not reached us on Feb. 19."

Human beings have great perseverance, courage, even humor, in the face of nature's most awful terrors.

Housing Census.

THE 1940 federal census will contain a new feature Federal housing agencies and the census bureau plan to count and classify every dwelling in the United States. It is the first time such a record has been sought. The purpose is to help in the formation of a permanent housing program for the country.

This census should provide much valuable information, some of it not flattering to the American standard of living. Dwellings will be found which are not fit for human habitations, lacking beauty and comfort, safety and sanitation.

We know more today about the existence of bad housing than we did a few years ago, and that not all slums are found in big cities. The more we learn about this subject the better able we will be to solve the housing problem and important related problems.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

It might have paid Germany not to have been desirous for the retirement of William E. Dodd as U. S. ambassador. Since his retirement, Professor Dodd (who formerly was professor of history at the University of Chicago) has been lecturing throughout the United States.

Indeed, that is an understatement. Professor Dodd is at the moment the most popular lecturer in the United States.

Professor Dodd has been unrelenting in his castigation of the Nazis. Evidently that is what the majority of Americans desire to hear.

More than that, however, he has thrown a new light on recent developments in the Soviet Union.

His view is that Germany had been working underground to overthrow the present Soviet government and establish a Fascist government there. Thus, the recent trials.

If Hitler had been able to gain control of Russia, too, he would have had an armed force and resources beyond anything ever previously heard of. But evidently he has missed in Russia. At least, his antagonism for it continues to be expressed in even more bitter terms.

NOT ALL JOY.

The hysterical shouts of joy for Hitler in Austria drown out the cries of agony of the conquered and the oppressed.

That much now is seeping through.

The "joy" of belonging to a Nazi dictatorship is not apparent to many of Austria's millions. But they never again can speak.

If one desires to contrast democracy with dictatorship, he may read the dispatches of the past two weeks from Austria.

* * *

A DODD VIEW.

Professor Dodd makes no effort to be other than anti-Nazi.

He, nevertheless, makes interesting statements, such as: "Germany now has 5,000,000 trained men in her army, and 6,500,000 unemployed men 'drilling' for their food . . . The cost of living has increased from 25 to 50 per cent, but there is no outcry.

"The individual is an atom in the state and the head of the state thinks of himself as God Almighty."

The efficiency of the Nazi war machine was demonstrated when it "took" Austria on about an hour's notice, on plans that had been perfected for months.

INFLATION.

Financial writers still speak of Germany's "inflationary bubble." The Nazis are spending "made wealth"...Some day the bubble will burst...not merely in Germany, but in other countries, too.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why a "Bucket Shop"?

The term seems to be entirely home-grown.

In the early days of the Chicago Board of Trade, when the rule was passed forbidding dealing in "options" of less than 5,000 bushels of produce, the smaller gamblers whom this was intended to eliminate established for their needs an Open Board of Trade, which operated in space below the rooms of the Board of Trade.

Because it dealt only in "bucketfuls" of grain, this market became known as the Bucket Shop and its members as Bucketers!

Also, when business on the Board of Trade needed stimulus, the elevator used for its members would be sent down to bring up a bucketful of the smaller speculators from the Open Board.

So, in time the terms "bucket shop," "bucketer" and "bucketing" became associated with security firms suspected of irregular or illegitimate dealings.

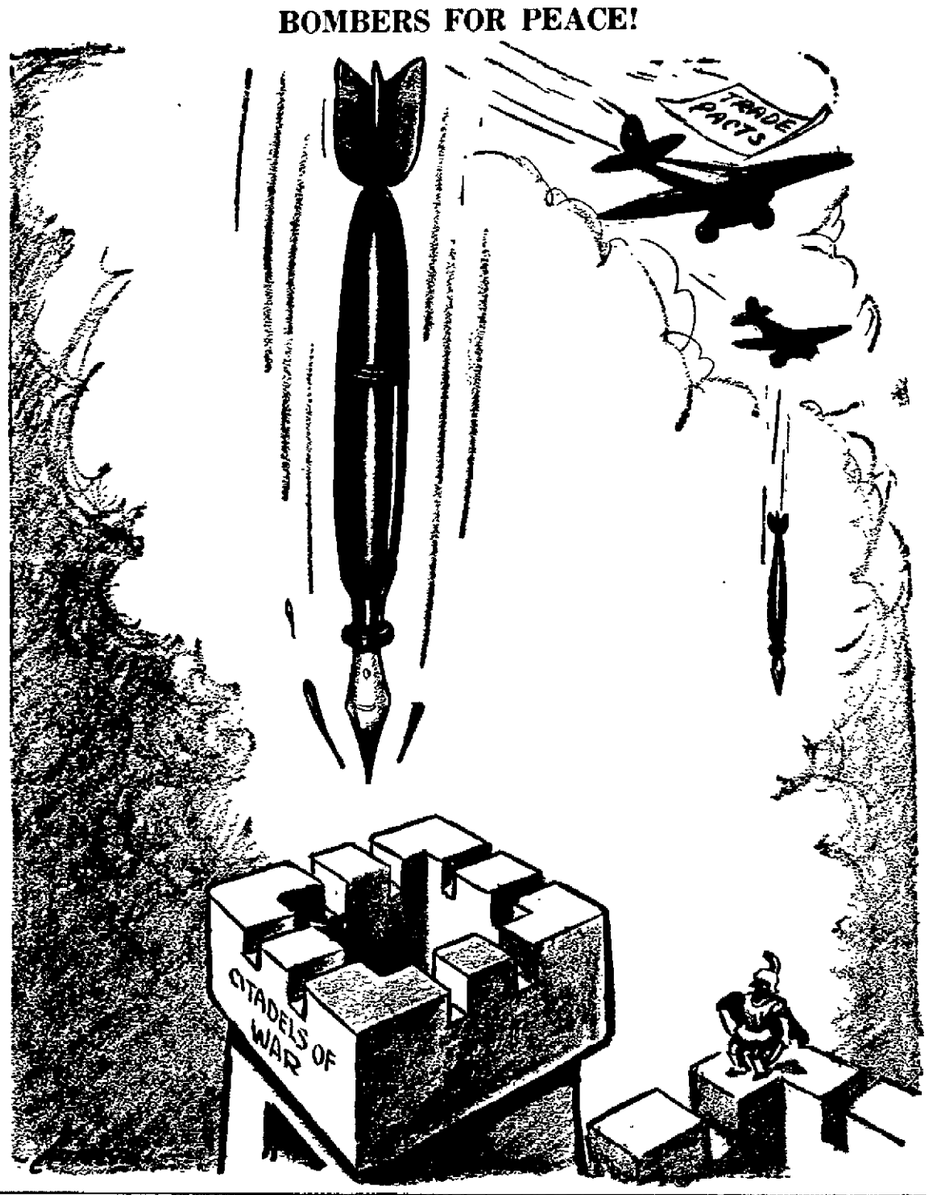
BOMBERS FOR PEACE!



How 'Understanding' and 'Agreement' Differ

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Chamberlain is quoted as saying England has a very satisfactory "understanding" with the United States about keeping the peace in the world and Secretary Hull tells congress first and the world at large later that there is no such understanding.

So we went to the state department to discover just what it was England said we had and Hull said we hadn't and it seems such a thing as an "understanding" has no official diplomatic standing in the world.

Readily we obtained a definition of a treaty, which is widely understood to be a signed pledge of nations to do this and that or not do this and that. For many years a treaty was an extremely sacred sort of thing, like the treaty between the United States and Muscat which for 105 years has required Muscat to rescue all sailors stranded by ship wrecks and send them back home, f. o. b. front porch.

But when we tried for "official" definitions of what constituted an understanding, we ran into a stone wall. Only on a strictly unofficial basis could we get some gradation in the various sort of relations which may exist between nations.

* * *

STEP BY STEP

NOW for instance, when nation meets nation they don't at once agree to share each other's bed and board and take up each other's fights. Diplomatically they begin sounding out each other. That is step No. 1. Next comes informal talks without commitment. Number three stage involves formal conversations with perhaps exchange of notes. Negotiations begin then and as a fifth step the negotiators decide what to put into a written record of what they hope to do.

As a sixth step comes the drafting of what is to be put in writing. That is getting very serious. When that is done, the next step is either an executive agreement (such as a reciprocal trade pact) or a formal treaty which requires ratification by the Senate.

None of that includes what constitutes an "understanding" however, but any reputable writer on things foreign will insist that nations may have an "understanding" although it is a bit difficult to define.

We remember only recently when a news editor came up to a foreign writer who had just written a piece. The news editor pointed out that the foreign writer had used the word "agreement" two times in the first sentence and would it be all right to substitute "understanding" for one of them.

Now to the lay mind that may sound like splitting hairs, but not to this foreign service writer. His brow wrinkled. He rubbed his chin. At first he was almost ready to agree that "understanding" would be acceptable in place of agreement but just as the news editor was about to write it in, the foreign writer solemnly suggested that it would be wiser and more exact to use "accord" rather than "understanding."

WEBSTER NO HELP

GO TO the dictionary if you like but you will find Webster and the others hopelessly provincial. They use "understanding" to explain what constitutes an "agreement" and use "agreement" to explain what is meant by an "accord."

After pressing foreign service writers for definitions we have come to a conclusion—wholly our own—that an understanding is something more than an expectation but something less than an agreement. An agreement is equal to an accord—only not quite. It is something more than an understanding but, on the other hand, less than an accord.

Now an accord has something of old world tenor. It is perhaps 1½ times an understanding and 1 2-5 times an agreement but fails at least 45 and perhaps 50 per cent short of a treaty.

We wouldn't go into these matters ordinarily but in such troublous times it is well to understand clearly what you read. Nations, we fear, have fallen in the gap between on understanding and an accord.

Think of Tantrums In Terms of "Watts."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I've a quick temper. And am as dangerously impulsive in my Enthusiasms. Always going off, half-cocked, about something. Pitching headlong into campaigns and crusades . . . bankrupting myself in orgies of generosity . . . then having the heckuva time mopping up the unpleasant consequences.

* * *

"High strung"—that's how people have always labeled tempestuous critters like me, figuring that "we're just born that way and can't do anything about it." Which is as convenient an alibi for self-indulgence as ever was invented . . . and the slickest racket for selfishness, cowardice and conceit No wonder the notion's so popular with ornery humans who can't be bothered to Act Regular—and want a lot of special consideration.

To whom I was no exception. My proud parents having mistaken smartiness for genius, I proceeded to cash in on their error. So Tantrums, for years, were my Pet Dish. Or Melancholy Moments—with the whole family in the Dog House because they'd failed to appreciate my Noble Nature. Sick Headaches, also, could be induced with little effort — and a tremulous Hint of Suicide was good for gobs of De Luxe coddling.

Yes, I certainly worked the High-Strung Racket to a fare-ye-well, as many others are doing. Not because there was anything unique about my afflictions or reactions, but simply because I had a human craving for the spotlight and had hit on a swell method of getting it . . . a method denied to ordinary gals who just wash clothes instead of scribbling sonnets.

And it seemed to be working. By various emotional devices, I was being let off from all sorts of unpleasant things which I didn't like — and achieving plenty of gratifying results which I did. As a racket, this business of Throwing-Myself-Around, either in anger or ecstacy, certainly seemed to be succeeding.

* * *

But it wasn't—not really! Yes, I had my friends and family stumped But as for me, myself, the system was a flop. Instead of feeling thrilled with triumph after my emotional exhibitions, I felt weary and washed-up . . . burnt-out and bored. Something must be wrong somewhere.

Something was! As I speedily discovered when I began to do a little construcive reading in physiology and psychology. Here I'd been thinking (with 23,000,000 other Hysterical Hatties) that Feelings were Mysterious Things you couldn't control. Now I found that Emotion is no more mysterious than Digestion.

Emotion is simply a form of energy generated by our glands, exactly as the power we read or ride by is generated by mechanical batteries. And just as we can control and conserve light or motion, so we can control and conserve hate and fear, delight and love, desire or revulsion.

In short, FEELINGS are actual ENERGY . . . "WATTS," such as are recorded in any basement meter. But they are infinitely more expensive than the watts you consume in your kitchen range or neon sign. If you use too many cooking or advertising watts, you merely bankrupt your pocket-book. BUT IF YOU USE TOO MANY EMOTIONAL WATTS, YOU BURN UP YOUR LIFE.

* * *

Don't do it! The next time you're tempted to indulge in a tantrum or a fit of blues, stop and think of the consequences. You're not just shedding tears, breaking furniture, starting a family feud. YOU ARE WASTING YOURSELF. YOU ARE WASTING THE MOST PRECIOUS PRODUCT YOU HAVE IN AN UTTERLY SENSELESS DISPLAY.

With those "watts" you might recharge yourself, regain your lost youth and charm . . . win new friends, start new adventures, create new beauty . . . REMAKE YOUR LIFE. And instead—

Finish it for yourself. And decide whether you're a "High Strung Genius" or — A PLAIN DAMN FOOL.

P. S.—If you want to read more about this, get Louis Berman's "Glands Regulating Personality." There's a book that's guaranteed to change any life that touches it. (Doubleday, Doran & Co., publishers.)

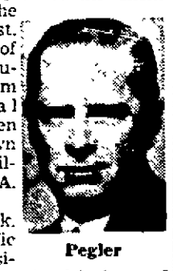
FAIR ENOUGH

The Loser In Union Fights.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SAN FRANCISCO—In a radio broadcast to Great Britain last week John L. Lewis blamed industry and the American government for the failure of this country to meet the problems of the new depression and rebuked the statesmen for squabbling and reviling in a terribly critical time.

Lewis was either uninformed or purposely evasive regarding the breakdown of commerce and a large degree of the unemployment on the Pacific coast, where most of the labor troubles arise from jurisdictional fights between unions of his own C. I. O and William Green's A. F. of L.



Pegler

Dave Beck, senior Pacific coast vice president of the Teamsters' union and late boss of Seattle, has sworn to fight Harry Bridges, West coast director of the C. I. O. to a knockout.

He has also sworn to fight the Brewery Workers' union of his own American Federation of Labor to the same conclusion. In the course of these and other wild brawls for power dues and large blocks of members, industry and the rank and file workmen are caught in the middle. Commerce halts and the men lose wages.

* * *

GETS SETBACK IN SEATTLE ELECTION

"But," says Beck, "you can't fight a war without hurting noncombatants, and I will make only one prediction—things are going to get a lot worse before they get any better."

Beck long ruled as politico-labor boss of the northwest. Seattle is his stronghold, but his power there appears to have been diminished by the recent defeat of his radical mayor, John F. Dore.

Beck is a hard-boiled, professional labor leader. He is 43 years old, about 5 feet 10, chunky, blue-eyed, red of face and red-haired, with more than a start toward baldness. He has thick hands, no longer calloused, and thick, stout wrists.

As he talks he bangs his fingers of his right hand on the palm of his left. On his visit to San Francisco last week he and Mrs. Beck lived in a suite at the St. Francis hotel, and the drawing room was elegant with two large vases of flowers. He gets $12,500 a year and his expenses.

* * *

DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF TERRORISM

Beck completely denies any knowledge of dynamiting, slugging, arm-and-leg breaking and business rackets in Seattle. He claims to have no interest but the Teamsters' union and he will fight an allied union of the A. F. of L. as furiously as he fights Bridges to maintain or extend his lines.

Beck doesn't even pretend that the employers are at fault in these fights beyond suspecting that they hope the strife will crack labor's front. In the fight to possess the brewery drivers he blames only the rival A. F. of L. union.

Beck hates Bridges and Tom Mooney, Communism and Communists and wants nothing to do with the revolutionary labor movement.

So union strikes against union, union pickets union, union boycotts and embargoes union. And workmen and commerce both suffer privation at the warlike whim of leaders who make only the most perfunctory pretense of democratic procedure. Mr. Lewis apparently doesn't know what goes on.

Let's Look Around

Where Sugar-Making Has Become Big Business.

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

CLEWISTON, Fla.—You might make many trips to Florida, following the customary routing, without ever getting in the vicinity of Clewiston—or even hearing of it—yet in this small city millions of dollars are invested and thousands of residents of the town and surrounding country are employed in producing and processing a daily essential in every home—sugar.

Located on the south side of Lake Okeechobee, Clewiston is the center of the great sugar-cane growing area of the Everglades and it is here that the United States Sugar corporation has erected and operates a huge sugar mill, one of the largest and most modern in the world, to convert sugar-cane stalks into the raw sugar crystals that are immediately shipped by the train load to Savannah, Ga., for refining into granulated form and various other grades customary to household and confectionary uses.

While a comparatively small percentage of Florida visitors cross the state by the route that leads through Clewiston, few of those who come here fail to visit the sugar mill, and a guided trip through the plant provides a novel and interesting experience —around five million dollars in machinery being required to carry through the continuous process by which the heavy stalks of sugar-cane pass from cars into receiving pits, thence through shredders, crushers and rollers which extract the juice.

The juice is then seen to pass through heaters, clarifiers and evaporators, to crystallizer-pans, after which the residue of molasses is removed by a centrifugal process and the raw sugar—rich brown in color — moves on into storage bins where it is automatically sacked—325 pounds to the bag — and loaded at once onto waiting freight cars consigned to the refinery.

Operation of the mill extends from mid-November to the middle of April, during which time the sugar cane produced on 20,000 acres of surrounding land is processed. The company owns or controls around 100,000 acres of land suitable for sugar-cane growing but has thus far been under federal crop restrictions which prevent full development of Florida's cane sugar production facilities.

An interesting phase of the process of making raw sugar is that the molasses residue is also marketable for various uses, including manufacture of live stock foods; the waste fiber which remains after extraction of the juice provides fuel sufficient to operate the plant machinery, and a pulp resulting from removal of impurities is fed back into the soil as a fertilizer for later crops—thus conforming to the idea that efficiency demands elimination of all waste.

In this Everglades region a sugar-cane crop matures in 12 months, with as many as seven or eight crops from one planting. Five thousand tons or cane is required to produce 450 tons of raw sugar.

With later anticipated removal of federal government restrictions on acreage that can be planted to sugar cane there is apparent justification for belief that cane sugar production in this once desolate swamp region of Florida will go far toward meeting the needs of the entire United States — rather than importing a large percentage of the supply, as is now being done.

COMING to Clewiston from Lake Wales provides excellent opportunity to observe Florida's central ridge section and to visit several places of interest that had heretofore been missed.

At Babson Park, a few miles south of Lake Wales, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Babson, who have a winter home at Mountain Lake, sponsor Webber college, with students spending the fall months in Boston and the winter months in Florida.

This school for young women, with enrollment limited to 100, is conducted on a non-profit basis and is intended, primarily, to give instruction in financial and business subjects, so that daughters of wealthy parents will be in position to more intelligently handle their money or property, and young women aspiring to business careers may concentrate on subjects that will be of practical benefit late in life.

* * *

TEN miles farther along is Frostproof, that little city with its big citrus fruit packing and canning plants, which, unfortunately, doesn't always make good on its odd-sounding name.

In addition to its advantageous location for the growing of citrus fruits, Frostproof's surrounding lakes make a strong appeal to fishermen and hunters, with the result that there are a number of attractive winter homes in this immediate vicinity.

Here also is a lumber industry devoted to manufacture of considerable percentage of the crates used for shipment of citrus fruits —with more than 15,000 acres of citrus groves surrounding the city.

At Sebring, where Mr. and Mrs. Rex Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Riley Cooper live each winter, much attention is being given to the further development of Highlands Hammock state park, thus designated because of its growth of hardwood trees. Of the 2,500 acres in this park, 500 constitute a dense "hammock" in which is is proposed that wild life shall be left undisturbed, while the remaining acreage is being developed into a great botanical garden and arboretum. Plans contemplate making this one of the exceptionally attractive spots of central Florida.

* * *

VENUS, on down the highway toward Clewiston, is only a small spot on even a very large map—on your map you may not find it at all—and you'll be just as well off.

For Venus is just another of those unhappy little towns that started out to be a metropolis when the Florida boom was on, but later reverted into an inconsequential village from which allotment sidewalks extend lonesomely, block after block, into nowhere — and the glittering promises of high-pressure lot salesmen served only to extract good money from unwary northern speculators, victimized during those hectic boom days.

Asked how Venus managed to get along, the proprietor of the general store replied: "That's the eighth wonder of the world—nobody seems to know. Don't hurry to move your car—there won't be anybody else along that'll be wanting gas."

Venus a beautiful name—but you wouldn't care to stay there long.

CRACK ARMY OF CZECHS AGAIN IN SPOTLIGHT

Strong Military Defense Grew From Regiments Attached to Russia's Military.

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

NEW YORK—It is nothing less than poetic justice that Czechoslovakia's crack army again should be in the world's eye as the little new republic faces the uncertainties of the central European situation.

The sturdy, steel-helmeted soldiers who peer down from their mountain defenses are the heirs of one of the great military epics of history.

There was a Czechoslovakia army before there was a Czechoslovakia. Indeed, the republic really was born out of heroic legions of Czechs and Slovaks who were drawn together in the World war because of their desire for freedom from Austria-Hungary.

It is just 20 years ago that a Czechoslovakian force battled its way clear across Siberia to Vladivostok in an anabasis that has few parallels. It was an army without an inch of sail which it could call its homeland.

Attached to Soviet Army.

The "nucleus of the "army of the Legions" was Czechs and Slovaks in Russia who organized scouting units and were attached to the Russian army to fight against the central powers.

Over in Austria-Hungary, Czechs and Slovaks were fighting in the army against their wills. Whole regiments deserted to Russia.

Czechs and Slovaks in the Russian army used to sing racial songs in the front-line trenches to let their people across in the Austro-Hungarian front line know where it was best to come over. In three years some 100,000 Czechs and Slovaks managed to cross to Russia.

Finally by 1917 they had an army corps of three divisions, eager to fight against the central powers. The late President Masaryk was in London, giving his people guidance in forming their army.

The Czechoslovakian army fought for Russia against the central allies; it fought in the first revolution of 1917 to compel the Russian government to continue to battle for the allies and grant reforms; it joined with Kerensky in establishing a new national government.

By that time Russian soldiers were heading homeward with the cry "We want land and bread." Out of this armed mass grew the social revolution which was to establish communism.

The Czechoslovakian army was used as a spearhead in a final battle against the Austro-Hungarians, in an effort to rally the disorganized Russians.

Begin Amazing Trek.

Dr. Masaryk then tried to move his troops to France but there was no way of getting there and so they started their amazing trek across Siberia to Vladivostok.

As the Czechoslovakians proceeded they left guards at the depots and ultimately obtained control of the whole railway in Siberia. For a year they held this line, constructing armored trains for the purpose. They lost 5,000 men in this campaign.

The Czechoslovaks made peace with the soviet in 1919, but actually it was 1920 before the Czechoslovakian army of the East got away from Russia.

Many of the chief officers of the present Czechoslovakian army went through the Siberian push.

CONGRESS GIVEN SCRAP OVER TVA

President Tells Lawmakers Why He Fired Morgan, Opens Path For Inquiry.

dence presented I was obliged to find that.

(A) Arthur E. Morgan publicly made grave and libelous charges of dishonesty and want of integrity against his fellow directors, and when called upon to sustain them repeatedly refused to do so;

(B) On the face of the record charges of the other directors that Arthur E. Morgan has obstructed the work of the Tennessee Valley Authority were substantiated by proof, were not refuted and therefore must be accepted as true;

(C) Arthur E. Morgan was contumacious in refusing to give the chief executive the facts, if any, upon which he based his charges of malfeasance against his fellow directors, and in refusing to respond to questions of the chief executive relating to charges of obstruction made against him by his fellow directors.

Arthur E. Morgan has repeated the assertion that he will answer questions only to a committee of the congress. Obviously, there can be no objection to hearings before such a committee. But the congress will, I am sure, realize that if any member of the executive branch of the government, of high degree or low degree, is given the right by precedent to refuse to substantiate general charges against other members of the executive branch of government and to insist on disclosing specifications only to a committee of the congress, efficient administrative management of government would be destroyed in short order.

Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House.

Before leaving last night for Warm Springs, Ga., Mr. Roosevelt told reporters the message would set out his legal powers to oust the man whom he chose five years ago to head the gigantic New Deal project.

Morgan and his friends have challenged that authority, contending the TVA act permits removal only by a congressional resolution.

The removal order was announced by the president to about 150 newspapermen shortly after passing of the deadline which he had set for Morgan's resignation or withdrawal of his allegations.

The house rejected a senate proposal to appropriate $2,613,000 to start a TVA dam at Gilbertsville, Ky., described by supporters as the keystone of the TVA system. The vote was 186 to 137.

A Farmer's Diary

March 22.

TODAY I traveled south among the hills. The fresh spring breezes bore to me the fragrance of the almost lush green meadows, the pungent smoke of last year's burning grass and leaves. The maple tops were red. The little shrubs in every hollow held bursting buds of tender green and the brook along the highway moved in gushing glee across its pebbled bed, then rushed into the lowland meadow, a brumming little river.

I passed close by a lovely grove of white oak, beech and sugar. Beyond these trees protruded from the steep hillside, great ledges of sandstone rock, shelving out on top beyond the base. The smoother parts were worn away by blowing sand, frost and rain.

It was a lovely sight to look upon—those weathered rock, nestled up there, beyond the slender tops of intervening trees.

A horse stood across the road. The farmer stepped upon the porch. "A fine view you have," I said. "The woods and rocks beyond would give an artist inspiration."

"You ought to see it when the leaves are on the trees. Taint so hot just now. I hear the farm is going to be sold and the butchers are going to get a chance to cut those trees. It hurts me to the heart. If I had the money I'd buy it and keep it just like you see it out there now. If they cut the trees the land won't be worth a cent—it'll be filled with gullies and the rocks up there will be homely as the devil. I wish someone would buy it who's got a heart."

I saw the keen and earnest look upon his face—two moist eyes that told his deep affection for the grove that meant so much of joy and beauty in his life.

I hope he has his wish.

COUNCIL MEETS

Trustees and Willard Officials Discuss Fire Protection.

WILLARD—A program for rural fire protection was discussed Monday night when trustees of New Haven and Richmond townships met with city council. Action on the matter was deferred because Norwich and Greenfield townships were not represented.

New screens were ordered for the Municipal hospital, since the screens, awnings and porch furniture owned by the hospital were destroyed in a fire at the Beelman mill.

An ordinance was passed increasing the salary of Assistant City Clerk E. Jones by $10 per month.

The report of the hospital for the month was read. It showed that 43 patients had been cared for and that income was $1,165 as compared with $1,565 in expenses.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier — (U.P.) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco, after a personal airplane tour of the lower Aragon front, today was reported ready to order a "final" drive to the Mediterranean.

The signal was awaited after reports from Burgos asserted that the nationalists had broken the loyalist front in the area around Huesca, on the northern Aragon front, which had been threatened since the start of the war.

The nationalist dispatches said that Huesca had been freed from virtual encirclement and that the loyalists had suffered many casualties.

SEE SUICIDE IN YOUTH'S DEATH

Police Absolve Only Suspect In 'Contortion Note' Slaying.

SPOONER, Wis. — (INS) — With their only suspect absolved by a well supported alibi, police today considered a theory of suicide in the fatal shooting of Raymond Washkuhn, 17, who was found dying with a purported $10 extortion note in his pocket.

Before he lost consciousness the youth gasped to authorities that Charles Lockhart, also 17, had shot him. Questioned for several hours, Lockhart produced half a dozen witnesses who testified he was with them when the shooting occurred.

Washkun, a high school senior, was supposedly on his way to telephone his family in nearby Spring Rock for the extortion money when he was shot.

While a 37-year-old colored woman lay seriously injured in the General hospital today as the result of injuries sustained in an auto accident early yesterday, a 21-year-old Crestline youth, the driver of a stolen car involved in the accident, was held in jail.

The woman, Mrs. Lillian Jones, of 116 Lily street, suffered a fractured jaw and possible skull injuries when the car in which she was riding was struck by the youth's machine at North Mulberry and West Fifth street at 1 a. m. Tuesday. Hospital attaches reported her condition as "only fair."

Two other colored persons, Luther Hill, the driver, and his son Ocie, both of 763 North Bowman street, suffered only minor injuries.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said the youth who admitted stealing the car in Oak Harbor five hours before the accident, would not be released to Ottawa county authorities until the extent of the woman's injuries could be determined.

COUNCIL PLANS STREET REPAIRS AT CRESTLINE

Delegations Request Work on Two More Thoroughfares; Appeals Allowed.

CRESTLINE—A discussion of a street program occupied the greater part of the time consumed for the regular meeting of city council Monday evening in the council chamber.

Mayor L. F. Waldbauer presided and called upon Engineer Kenneth Shaffer for a report of the investigation as the cost of the improvements for the streets. Shaffer had been instructed at the last council meeting to meet with a state WPA representative and see if the streets could not be improved through a WPA project.

Hear Delegates.

Heretofore the improvement of only Union and Cross streets had been considered but at the Monday meeting a delegation of residents from St. James, High and Newton streets also was present, together with those from Union and Cross streets.

C. E. Miller, a resident of St. James street, acted as speaker for the east side group.

At the conclusion of the discussion council passed a resolution to improve Union and Cross streets as WPA projects and to file applications to submit St. James, High and Newton streets as WPA improvement projects. A tar-bound surface for the streets was agreed upon. An estimated cost of about 85c per foot frontage for material and equipment was given. The curb and gutter will be installed first and the grade established. A six and one-half inch gravel base with two and one-half inch covering of stone and tar-bound top dressing will be used.

All streets being repaired are cinder streets.

Following the reading of a complaint regarding water drainage of a lot owned by Albert Lahler at the north end of Pearl street, Kaler was to be given five days to remedy the condition.

The utility committee was instructed to meet with C. A. Thomas of the Marion Reserve Power company in regard to changing street lights at the Sinclair Service station at the intersection of South Seltzer and Thoman streets.

MARKET HIT BY SELLING SPREE

Prices Driven Down $1 To $5 But Later Show Recovery.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Selling which left the reporting machinery several minutes behind transactions drove stock market prices down $1 to $50 or more for many active leaders in early trading today, but prices recovered a little toward midday.

Brokers saw many of the bellwethers of the list at or approaching the cross-roads of the lows touched in last fall's selling wave, and feared the psychological effect on holders of a downturn should carry decisively through those levels.

The general uneasiness was said to save induced selling by some big investors, which in turn had induced many others to liquidate.

COUNCIL OKAYS LOAN OF $2,700 FOR SEWER JOB

Bonds Will Finance Property Owners' Share of Improvements on 3 Streets.

Legislation providing for the borrowing of $2,700 pending the issuance of bonds and the collection of assessments to finance improvements on three city streets, was authorized by city council last night.

The loan is to be used to meet the property owners' share of the construction of sanitary sewer lines.

The property owners' share of the improvements include a sanitary sewer on Andover road and Yale drive at a cost of $1,600, a sanitary sewer on Harter avenue at $600, and a sanitary sewer on Chilton avenue at the cost of $500.

Legislation authorizing the construction work was approved by council at its regular meeting Feb. 1.

Legislation also was approved for the construction of a sanitary sewer to be laid on Overlook road and Shepard road. With WPA assistance, the property owners will be assessed $4,500 while the city's share is figured at $100.

Council also approved a supplemental appropriation of $100 to the waterworks funds to pay the transportation costs of $5 per month to the superintendent annd the electrician of the sewage disposal plant.

Other business transacted by council last night was:

CONDUCT DRIVE

100 Workers Sell Tickets For University Women.

Approximately 100 workers today were making a concerted drive to sell tickets for the benefit picture show which will be presented at the Madison theater for three days starting Thursday under the auspices of the Mansfield branch of the American University Women's Association as a first step in establishing a $5,000 scholarship fund.

Mrs. W. L. Miller and Miss Ruth Dunham, chairmen of the committee in charge of the show, said today that no check up would be made of the number of tickets sold until the latter part of the week.

Only tickets sold in advance of the show, or away from the Madison box office will benefit the scholarship fund. The picture selected for the benefit is "Of Human Hearts," a story of the Civil war and its effect on one family. Tickets are being sold by members of the club, at Tawse's Pharmacy, The Book Shop, and the Chamber of Commerce.

ACTOR TESTIFIES IN BALM SUIT

Lived With Ex-Screen Star 11 Years, He Says In $150,000 Suit.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—No proposal, no engagement, no marriage.

Thus Robert Ellis Reel, actor-writer, testified yesterday concerning the 11 years he lived with Vera Reynolds, former screen star, before she sued him for $150,000 for alleged breach of promise.

His story disclosed he had written to Miss Reynolds as "Your next husband," but he considered the phrase only "a term of endearment between two lovers."

Their romance, Reel testified, became a common-law existence in 1927.

BIRTHS, DEATHS SHOW INCREASE

The death rate also increased during the past year, with 81 deaths as compared with 70 in 1936, Miss McPherson stated. Death statistics follow: heart diseases, 26; cancer, 11; accidental, 6; and suicide, 1.

NAZIS TIGHTEN HOLD ON CZECHS

German Party Becomes Chief Minority In Parliament of Czechoslovakia.

The draft of the declaration, as approved by the cabinet, was understood to include the following:

1. Britain will make no new commitments in Czechoslovakia or elsewhere in central Europe.
2. Adherence to existing commitments to aid France immediatel, if the latter is attacked.
3. Strict adherence to non-intervention in Spain.
4. Hope for early signature of an Anglo-Italian agreement.

The cabinet also began examination of plans for early intensification of the arms program. It was officially announced that Chamberlain will meet with the general council of the trades union congress tonight to explain that the government has decided on acceleration of the program.

Hapsburg Archduke Jailed by Nazis.

LINZ, Austria — (UP) — Archduke Josef Ferdinand of Hapsburg, chief of the illustrious Hapsburg-Tuscany line, was arrested at Mondsee, near Salzburg, today charged with insulting the Nazi regime.

Nazi sources alleged that the archduke had made insulting remarks to villagers of Mondsee but that when he was arrested he tried to deny the remarks. The archduke has his principal seat at Mondsee.

Most illustrious of all the noblemen arrested since the Austro-German union, the archduke, 65, is a son of the late Grand Duke Ferdinand IV of Tuscany.

Nazis Officially Deny Wave of Suicides.

BERLIN — (INS) — The German government today officially denied foreign reports of mass arrests and suicides in Austria.

It was stated there have been 96 suicides in Vienna during the past 10 days, of which 50 are directly traceable to the annexation of Austria by Germany.

Authorities also denied that any bishop in Austria has been arrested or molested. "None of them so far have given grounds for such action," the statement said.

The greater German election campaign for the April 10 plebiscite summoned to endorse Chancellor Hitler's annexation of Austria was declared officially open today.

French Deputies Oppose War Bills.

PARIS—(INS)—Strong opposition was expected in the French senate today to two bills, approved by the chamber of deputies, to give more funds to the nation's war chest.

The senators will claim, it was anticipated, that the measures will weaken the financial stability of France.

One measure calls for a $165,000,000 loan from the Bank of France, covering current costs of the nation's huge rearmament program.

The other authorizes the Bank of France to make a lump sum grant to the permanent national defense fund of $60,000,000. This money to be taken from profits of the exchange equalization fund.

In addition, the chamber of deputies debated measures for total and instantaneous mobilization of the country in the event of a sudden attack.

The total mobilization proposals would call for organization of all able-bodied men and women for service on the battlefields and in war material factories the moment an "undeclared attack" struck at French frontiers.

CLUB HEARS OF 'ISOLATIONISM'

Rotarians Given Other Side Of Question In Book Review.

In contrast to the world trade movement advocated at the recent Institute of International Understanding in Mansfield, Rotarians heard the "isolationist" idea at their luncheon meeting yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Carl Oberlin, a member of the club, reviewed the book "Open Door At Home," by Dr. Charles A. Beard, in which the United States is urged to place less emphasis on competing for foreign exchange and more on developing home markets. Oberlin was in charge of the program.

Mrs. Mercedes Walker, of New York, representing the artist bureau of the National Broadcasting company, outlined the purposes of the Civic Music program in Mansfield for 1938 and urged support of the movement.

housed," and regard balancing the budget as more important than appropriating for relief.

"But this nation," he said, "will never permanently get on the road to recovery if we leave the methods and the processes of recovery to those who owned the government of the United States from 1921 to 1933."

Hitting at his critics in congress, he said the "selfish" few had the "same type of mind" as those who "vote against legislation to help social and economic conditions, proclaiming loudly that they are for the objectives but do not like the methods and they fail utterly to offer a better method of their own."

Then turning to conditions in "this, my other state," the president spoke in vigorous language against low wages and low buying power.

"The purchasing power of the millions of Americans in this whole area is far too low," he said.

After declaring that buying power means better schools, health, hospitals and highways and stimulation of business and industry, he added:

Opposes Feudalism.

"These things will not come to us in the south if we oppose progress—if we believe in our hearts that the feudal system is still the best system.

"When you come down to it, there is little difference between the feudal system and the Fascist system. If you believe in one, you lean to the other.

"With the overwhelming majority of the people of this state, I oppose feudalism, so do many among those who by virtue of their circumstances in life belong to the most prosperous five per cent of the population."

Then, as if he might have had an eye on the November elections, the president asserted:

"To those in and out of public office, who still believe in the feudal system—and believe in it honestly—the people of the United States and in every section of the United States, are going to say, "we are sorry but we want people to represent us whose minds are cast in the 1938 mould and not in the 1898 mould."

MAPLE SUGAR SEASON SHORT

Heat Wave to Cost Northern Ohio Farmers Thousands.

PAINESVILLE, O. — (UP) — Their maple sugar season cut suddenly short by the March warm spell, Lake and Geauga county farmers, many of them dependent on maple products for the major part of their year's income, stand to lose thousands of dollars.

The flow of sap no longer is trickling into tree buckets. Instead it is soaring swiftly upward to provide nourishment for the fast-growing buds. Even if a cold snap should ensue, it will be too late, for once the bud taste seeps into sap, its commercial value is destroyed, growers said.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Two brothers and a sister from Ohio failed today to share in a $100,000 estate left by James W. Barnhart to his only daughter, Mrs. M. B. Cummings.

A circuit court jury upheld a will against which fraud had been charged by E. R. Barnhart of Wadsworth, C., D. A. Barnhart of Ashland, O., Mrs. Eva B. Slater of Creston, O., and R. P. Brown of Boy River, Minn.

POLICE CAR HIT

Cruiser and Taxi Collide, 3 Officers Escape Injury.

A Mansfield police department cruiser and a DeLuxe taxicab operated by Wayne H. Burns, 10 East Third street, collided on Park avenue west last night.

Both left fenders of the cruiser were smashed, the running board torn loose and the body dented. The left front wheel of the taxi was damaged.

Capt. John Miller, Patrolmen Russell Miles, and John Gilbert, riding in the cruiser, were shaken up but not injured. One passenger in the cab also was uninjured.

The officers reported that they had been trailing a car that was going west on Park avenue west without lights and that just as they pulled along side the machine with the left side of the cruiser near the middle of the street, Burns drove out of a driveway at 381 Park avenue west and struck the cruiser. A collision between the police car and the auto they had been following was narrowly averted, the officers said.

PROBE BLOND WOMAN'S DEATH

Police Find Body of Expensively Clad Woman In River.

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — An autopsy was to be performed today on the bruised body of an expensively clad blond woman found floating in the Delaware river.

Coroner Charles Hersch declared he could not decide whether the case is one of murder or suicide until the post-mortem examination has been completed. Detectives, however, tentatively listed the case as murder.

Lack of identifying marks hampered the police investigation into the woman's death.

POPE APPEALS TO FRANCO TO CURB AIR RAIDS

Insurgent Army Chief Urged to Moderate Bomb Attack on Civilian Sectors.

(By Associated Press)

VATICAN CITY — Pope Pius has made two appeals to insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco to use moderation in the air bombing of the civilian population in the Spanish civil war, Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, disclosed today.

(Great Britain and France asked the pope to join in appeals to Franco after last week's bombings of Barcelona, the government capital, in which at least 872 persons were killed. Monday Secretary of State Hull expressed a "sense of horror" at the Barcelona slaughter.)

Reply 'Reassuring.'

L'Osservatore Romano said the pope made "a warm appeal" to the Spanish insurgent chieftain in February and received "a reassuring reply."

On March 21, after new bombardments of Barcelona, the pope ordered Monsignor Antoni Utti, the Holy See's representative in Salamanca, to make a new appeal to the generalissimo.

L'Osservatore Romano said "the Holy See has always done whatever was possible to succor war victims and call combatants to a sense of moderation."

Previously the Vatican had denied reports that Franco had been approached in line with the French and British appeals, which were directed to the pope and to both sides in the Spanish war in hope of obtaining an agreement for abandonment of air attacks on civilian centers.

TAX RECEIPTS NEAR $500,000

Payments Continue to Pour In By Mail Despite Deadline.

The counuty's real estate tax receipts for the first half year moved toward the $550,000 mark today with receipts totaling $549,768 reported at County Treasurer John E. Kolb's office.

Mail returns continued to pour into the treasurer's office despite the deadline Monday night, and collections yesterday amounted to $8,682.

When returns are all tabulated, probably sometime next week, the collection is expected to be one of the best in recent years. The half-year charge of nearly $600,000 includes both current and delinquent levies, and much of the tax still unpaid is included in delinquencies carried over from last year, it was said.

Heads Campaign

Heading the membership campaign of the Civic Music association this week is Mrs. Paul W. Williams, a vice president of the organization, who is general chairman. The campaign committee hopes to obtain 1,000 members this week.

SETS 'PRICE' FOR PANAY BOMBING

U. S. Asks $2,214,007 From Japan For Loss of Life, Property In Yangtze.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States was ready today to settle the "Panay incident" with Japan for $2,214,007.36.

A note to this effect was delivered to the Japanese foreign office by American Ambassador Joseph E. Grew, upon instructions from Secretary of State Cordell Hull. The damages assessed for the sinking by Japanese planes of the U. S. Gunboat Panay and three Standard Oil vessels on the Yangtze river Dec. 12, covered indemnation for the three American lives lost in the attack, the injury to some 40 others and property losses.

The United States "after careful consideration," which required months of investigation and correspondence with the victims and their relatives and owners of the property destroyed, asked Japan to pay $268,337.35 for indemnification for loss of life and personal injuries, and $1,945,670.01 for property losses.

The note reminded the Japanese government that it had formally promised "to pay full indemnification for all the losses sustained."

WEATHER SPURS COUNTY'S ROAD REPAIR PLANS

Highway Department Puts All Available Equipment Into Service.

All available county road maintenance equipment has been placed in service as the county highway department launches the task of repairing its roads which were badly damaged during the past winter.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword said six maintainers, three-tractor-graders and two road drags, manned by 17 men, worked on main and secondary routes throughout the county yesterday, filling ruts and spreading new materials on the roads.

Little Rebuilding Now.

There will be little rebuilding of roads, Sword said, until the county receives its state allocation of auto license fees next month to finance a construction program.

Roads dried out rapidly during the warm weather the first half of the week and are in better condition now than they were at the same time last year, the engineer said. Every road and bridge is open for traffic now, while last March there were 14 bridges out as a result of floods, he added.

"We are due to get about $200,000 from the state for road work this year, but so far we have received only $10,000 of it," Sword pointed out.

Distributions of license tag money are made three times a year and gas tax receipts are allocated about five times a year.

ELK NO LONGER WILD

SANDIA, N. M.—(U.P.)—Ranger E. W. Cottam complained to the Cibola Forest office that the elk were complete "washouts" as wild animals. The ranger spends a major portion of his time chasing deer off the highways and out of gardens.

CHAPTER XXV

Murray and Jose lifted the unconscious Dolores from the automobile. They carried her to the house. Sue Castle, pale-faced and wet-eyed, walked beside her friend, holding one of her hands . . . Sue Castle . . . knowing now she was not welcome at Rancho La Luz. Mercedes slowly followed, ignoring Ponce's restraining hand.

Don Vincente, opened the door of the car, seized Pablo by the arm.

"You've been shot, too?" he said. "Can you walk?"

"I can try," said Pablo. He put one foot out of the car, found the running board. He slid from the seat into the watchful arms of Don Vincente, who held him up. "Not serious," gasped Pablo. "But—unpleasant. He got me in the ribs."

Don Vincente turned and shouted at Don Ponce Robles, who was still standing where Mercedes had left him.

"Come and help me get this man into the house. He's been shot.

Don Ponce came forward then, and between them they aided Pablo into the house.

"Vasquez," Pablo explained, in Spanish, "tried to kill us. But his machine . . . a tire blew out. Otherwise we wouldn't be here. Had to leave Manuel . . .to save Dolores. I'll be all right."

Examination revealed the correctness of his estimate of his injury. Painful but not serious, and not so painful after the proper treatment had been given.

But Dolores was in worse shape. A thirty-eight calibre bullet had gone through the upper portion of her arm, just below the shoulder. Fortunately it had missed all bones and had gone through, leaving a clean wound, with no probing necessary—a wound which indicated that the bullet had been of the "steel-jacketed" type. Had it been of the sort which mushrooms on contact, there would have been a much more terrible injury.

* * *

For the rest of the day, then, the ranch house at La Luz had the atmosphere of a hospital. Mercedes and Sue attended the patients, the former painstakingly and cheerfully, but with a coldness to Sue which verged upon the discourteous. Every now and then the American girl detected Mercedes gazing at her oddly, speculatively, through half-shut eyes. And sensing the dislike, Sue avoided the mistress of La Luz as much as possible.

It was therefore with some surprise and distrust that, when the evening meal was over and it was growing dark, Sue saw Mercedes approaching her. Mercedes took her by the arm with a seemingly friendly gesture, and said:

"Let's take a walk. It is pleasant at this time of day.

Together they strolled down the long road for some hundreds of yards. Then Mercedes turned from it, and led the way to a big tree, beneath which was a bench.

"I often come here," she explained, "to sit in the evening."

Sue sat down. When she looked up to see why Mercedes did not do likewise, she found the disquieting Mercedes looking down at her with narrowed eyes, her mouth twisted.

"Why—" began Sue. "Why—what's the matter?——"

"What's the matter?" repeated Mercedes. "What's the matter, says the girl," she jibed. "A worthless little companera from the Tijuana saloons asks what's the matter! Sit down." She put out a hand to push Sue back into the seat from which she had started to rise in perplexity and astonishment, which had not yet had time to turn to anger. "Sit there! You don't know what is the matter? I will tell you!"

For a moment Mercedes was silent, breathing heavily, glaring down upon the American girl.

"I would think you were a fool—if I did not know you to be a clever and unscrupulous adventuress. Do you think Don Murray cares for you? Loves you? Do you dream that a man like him could care for a girl from the Tijuana barrooms? A girl with whom a thousand men have had every right to make free! A girl—"

"That," said Sue, white-faced and quivering, "is a lie." She tried to rise, but again Mercedes pushed her back upon the bench.

"You stay there and listen to me," rasped Mercedes. "You asked what the matter was. I'm telling you. At the request of your dying father, Don Murray rescues you from your lover Vasquez . . . I wonder if you would have wanted to be rescued . . . if Don Murray had not been a wealthy catch, eh? Never mind. He rescues you, so you say to yourself, this is good business—I will grab Don Murray in place of Vasquez. You . . . you who may have to go to the prison island of Santa Maria tomorrow . . . who will go if . . . if I give the word in Tijuana . . . You have the face to be what you are and do what you have done to Don Murray—and then come brazenly to Rancho La Luz. Rancho La Luz, of which I—I—am mistress.

* * *

Her heart beating wildly, but feeling cold all over, Sue Castle could only stare up, white-faced, at the Spanish girl standing with clenched hands, flushed face and fiery eyes. Could only stare and waver beneath the lash—and wonder if it were deserved. Wonder if this were the way all others would look upon her. And suddenly she felt that it was so. That never could her life be like that of other women. That she had to protect Don Murray against herself. Yes, Mercedes was right.

Abruptly she grew calm.

"I think—" she said, slowly, "that you are right, Mercedes. I—I didn't see what I was letting Murray in for. Sit down, please, and let's see what to do about it all."

"Do about it?" said Mercedes, seating herself slowly, as though reluctant to give up her pose. "There is only one thing to do about it."

"And that is?"

"That is for you to go away. To go away from La Luz and from Don Murray. And to stay away."

Sue took the blow in silence. After all, Mercedes was right. The assumptions of the Spanish girl were wrong, all wrong, but her conclusions were correct. What would she be doing to Murray Kilbourne . . . to let him have a wife that all the world would taunt?

Mercedes misunderstood the silence.

"You think, perhaps," she jibed, "that Don Murray will hunt for you again. You may be sure he will not. He is too much of a gentlenman to let you know what he thinks—after you have thrown yourself at his head—but we know, all of us know, what he must think."

Sue made a hurt movement with one hand.

"Wait," she said. "Wait, Mercedes. It was not that I was thinking. I was just wondering—wondering how I could manage to—to do as you suggest. I know you are right. I—I just didn't think about it. So now . . . How can I get away?"

For a moment Mercedes did not answer. She was telling herself joyfully, "I have won! I have won! And in Sue's head the words were hammering, "I must go. I can't hurt Murray. I must go."

"That will be simple," Mercedes told Sue at last. "One of the servants, Francisco, is driving to Tijuana this evening. He will leave in an hour. You can go with him. Be here, at this place, in an hour."

"Very well," assented Sue. "I'll be here." She must not hurt Murday. And so she must take no farewells, must drop out of his life, and the lives of these others at La Luz, as abruptly as she had entered.

* * *

Unobserved, she found her way to the room that had been given up to her, collected her few belongings and made ready for departure. And as she did so, a thought kept hammering at her, a thought which said "I can't hurt Murray—but I can't let him think I'm ungrateful, that I'm . . . that I'm what Mercedes thinks I am."

Wherefore she finally sought and found paper and pencil and wrote a very brief note, a note which, after it was written, she held tightly in her hands while she gazed unseeingly at it, and her eyes grew wet. And as at the appointed time she made her way quietly from the house, she slipped this note under the door of the room she knew was Murray's.

Mercedes was waiting for her beneath the tree. Parked at a little distance was a small car, Francisco at the wheel. Sue took her seat beside him.

"Good-by, Mercedes," said Sue, as Francisco started the engine.

But Mercedes made no reply. She watched the car until its taillight disappeared down the road. Then she turned toward the house.

"I told him never to bring her here," she said to herself. "I told him."

Has She the Perfect Figure?

Red-headed Ann Sheridan of the screen has been adjudged by two well-known artists as having the "perfect American girl figure." The artists are Jean Charlot and Azadia Newman. Miss Sheridan, of Dallas, Tex., who came to the screen capital via the beauty contest route, was selected because of her wide shoulders, trim hips, straight back, long, straight legs with slender ankles and beautiful throat.

CITY'S HUNT FOR TALENT GOES INTO SECOND ROUND TOMORROW

The Mansfield talent quest, which will give some one in this vicinity a chance at radio and screen fame, will go into its second elimination contest Thursday night at the Ohio theater, with probably two winners to be selected.

A number of acts have been registered and will have a private rehearsal at 7 p. m. at the theater before E. R. Alcott of WTAM Cleveland, who serves as master of ceremonies during the stage exhibition of talent.

The first elimination contest was held last Thursday and two winners were selected by the volume of applause. The same rules will apply throughout the contest.

A third contest will be held on Thursday, March 31, and on the following Thursday, all of the winners in the eliminations will compete for final honors in this district.

A four-week tour of Ohio theaters, with all expenses paid, is in store for the winners of the finals, and the state winners will go to New York City for radio and screen tests.

The talent quest is being sponsored by National Broadcasting company, Warner Brothers, and by the News-Journal in this district.

The second contest will be staged at 9 p. m. tomorrow night.

MAKES GOOD BUT LITTLE BIT LATE

Bondsman Hunts Fugitive 12 Years; Loses $10,000 Anyway.

DENVER—(AP)—For 12 years Hal D. Van Gilder, bondsman, tracked a fugitive who jumped a $10,000 bond which Van Gilder had to forfeit.

Finally, in Reno, Nev., Van Gilder "got his man," a former defendant in a Denver "bunco" game case, and returned him to Denver.

The bondsman proudly brought his prisoner before police and city and county officials.

"Now, I want my $10,000 bond returned," said Van Gilder.

Authorities decided too long a period had elapsed and declined to pay.

BAT MYTH DEBUNKED

SANTA FE, N. M.—(U.P.)—The oldtime belief that bats possess a "sixth sense" which guides them past objects they cannot see is a myth, according to A. E. Borrell, of the National Park Service. He said he had captured 286 bats in six nights by means of fine wires stretched across the top of a water tank.

2 PLEAD GUILTY, SENT TO PRISON

Probations of Mansfield and Butler Men Revoked After They Admit Violations.

Judge C. H. Huston revoked the probations of Harry D. Patterson, 30, of Butler, and Harold Schonauer, 24, Mansfield, when they pleaded guilty to violations yesterday in common pleas court, and sentenced Patterson to the Ohio penitentiary and Schonauer to the Mansfield reformatory.

Patterson's sentence is for one to 20 years, while Schonauer will serve from one to three years for his violation.

Arrested by Sheriff E. P. Long 10 days ago, Patterson admitted breaking into the Starrett and Son Hardware store at Bellville, last November and looting the establishment of goods valued at more than $100. A part of the loot, including a radio, clock, and two fising reels, was recovered.

Patterson was placed on probation for three years last March after he pleaded guilty to an indictment for forgery.

Schonauer was on probation following his indictment for abandoning his two minor children. His probation was revoked following his arrest for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Chief Points to Danger After Answering 5 Calls in 2 Days.

With the fire department called out five times in the past two days to extinguish grass fires, Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger today warned against the unnecessary clearing of underbrush in this manner.

"Don't start something that you can't stop", Seeburger said as he warned against the damage that might result from a grass fire which can easily get out of control.

"Flying sparks can easily ignite buildings and cause serious damage," he added.

GROWS BIGGEST CHILDREN TOO

California Says Average Height Greater Than Elsewhere.

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—(AP)—California is growing larger children than any other state.

The state department of public health came to this conclusion after recording the heights and weights of 50,000 children born in California and 25,000 born outside the state.

Dr. Orren Lloyd Jones of Los Angeles, who was in charge of the study, said:

"We are able to state that the average height of children of a given age born elsewhere than California is invariably less than the average height of California native born children."

USE MORE LIPSTICK, WIVES TOLD, TO REDUCE DIVORCES

LONDON—(INS)—If wives used more lipstick, divorces would be less.

Such is the considered opinion of the Rev. George Needham, psychologist vicar of St. Philip's church, Sheffield, Yorkshire, Eng.

In a message to the wives of his working-class parish, the Rev. Needham said:

"A woman should try to look her best after marriage as well as before it.

"If wives looked after their beauty after marriage as they did in courtship, I am sure the divorce rate would go down. If cosmetics are necessary use them by all means.

"A woman's charm is to some extent her good looks. During courtship she knows this and exploits it. She has the right to do the same after marriage."

Many people, the Rev. Needham opined, regard marriage as the climax to a couple's life, and from that time man and wife become indifferent to each other.

"I think that is avoidable, especially if both parties were to look after their appearances, and a happy marriage would result. If it is necessary for a wife to use cosmetics, I advise her to do so.

"Cosmetics and beauty and cleanliness go hand in hand. Both man and wife should try to look at their best."

Davey Faces Political Crisis In Call for Assembly

GOVERNOR ON 'SPOT,' AIDS, FOES BELIEVE

Special Session Would Place Him as Target For Renewed Blasts by Critics.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Gov. Martin L. Davey, debating "when or whether" to call the legislature into another special session to deal with relief, was face to face today with a difficult political question to answer on the eve of a primary campaign, in the opinion of both his friends and critics here.

A possible indication that he is confused as to how to proceed was seen in his recent statements in Cleveland after a conference concerning the relief problem with Mayor Harold H. Burton. He first announced definitely that a session would be called, although he did not fix a date. A few hours later he followed up with an announcement that he had not decided "when or whether" to recall the general assembly.

Critical Moment.

Either a decision for or against a session in the near future may react adversely upon the administration at an admittedly critical moment in the governor's political career and with the question of whether he will seek a third term still unanswered publicly.

The state auditor's office agreed with Mayor Burton and officials of other large cities of the state that the relief problem will again demand serious attention by the middle of next month. On the other hand, past experience has shown how difficult it is to limit a session to relief only and how even more difficult it is to get agreement in the legislature on the always controversial relief subject. The legislators also have their own primaries to worry about and a special session probably would not be relished by most of them.

Faces New Criticism.

If delay in reconvening the legislature is decided upon, more criticism undoubtedly will be heaped upon the administration by proponents of liberal state relief grants, including large labor groups that feel the past policy has been niggardly.

Should the pressure of the large cities for more relief money increase and the governor persist in delay, his enemies conceivably could damage his primary prospects by attempting to alienate large urban blocs.

There is not much expectation here that a new session would mean renewal of the senate graft investigation, for numerous reasons. Among them is the fear of anti-Davey Democrats that further inquiry would hurt the whole Democratic cause in the fall, regardless of the effect upon the governor.

Columbus Girl's One-Time Chinese Husband Killed

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Relatives of Viola Brown, former wife of K. M. James Lin, foster son of China's president, received word today that Lin was killed in action while fighting against the Japanese.

Lin, once a student at Ohio State university, met Miss Brown while the latter was a clerk at a five and ten-cent store. They were married in Kentucky July 14, 1935.

It later developed that Lin had married without the consent of his parents and without knowledge of his bride that he already had two wives and three children in China.

When this information was printed in local papers, Lin returned to his native land.

Miss Brown entered a suit for divorce in Franklin county courts and a decree was handed down in her favor. Lin was reported to have made a settlement.

'Hot Mix' Suit Shifted to Highway Office

Up and Down THE STREET

Mayor Claude M. Hunter was doing a little explaining to callers at his office today. The object of discussion was a miniature donkey set on top of his filing cabinet which the mayor said had been presented to him. "It's something I've always wanted—you know my predecessor had a hobby for collecting elephants and kept them here on his desk."

* * *

It may have been an awfully short spring we had yesterday and the day before, but at least two gals took advantage of it while it lasted. They were seen on West Fourth street, wearing those sleeveless and backless summer dresses. Which was quite a contrast to the weather almost two years ago to the day when Mansfield was in the grip of an extremely cold spell, during which time a horse froze to death in the country near Mansfield.

* * *

The combination of a day off and the summer temperatures yesterday were too tempting to Guy Stewart, county commissioner from Lucas, who got out his fishing tackle and went to Lake Erie to inaugurate the 1938 season. He came home, he said, with 27 fish which he described as "a pretty good catch." Skeptical friends, however, demanded proof and when it was not forthcoming, said they would have to see pictures of future Stewart catches.

Since this column today seems to be largely about "Spring Has Came," here's a final touch. Boys and girls of the art classes at Senior High school got a touch of spring fever yesterday and decided to do their studying right out in the lap of Mother Nature. They went to the lawns around the building and made sketches of the building and the landscapes or whatever crossed their line of vision.

LYNCH BILL PROPOSAL BRINGS THREATS OF NEW FILIBUSTER

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Threat of filibuster appeared today to be the likely answer of southern statesmen to President Roosevelt's suggestion that the federal government be authorized to investigate and publicize facts relating to lynching or any fatal mob violence.

An anti-lynching bill foundered in the senate this session during a filibuster. Mr. Roosevelt had not directly endorsed the bill, but his leaders were in charge of it and they maneuvered it close to enactment before the massed oratory of southern statesmen prevailed.

Some of those filibusters are ready to talk again, if necessary, to prevent a grant of authority which would enable G-men or other federal representatives to pursue lynch-law inquiries in their states. The United Press was informed that they would prefer for the time being to avoid public discussion of the issue but that pressure for Mr. Roosevelt's plan would "prolong the session."

If the president's congressional leaders report similarly to the White House it is not likely that any real effort will be made this year to deal further with lynching problems.

Considerable practical politics is bound up in the lynch-law dispute which has split the New Deal-Democratic party. Sens. Frederick Van Nuys, O., Ind., and Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., sponsored the anti-lynching bill. Their states are two of the nine in which Postmaster General James A. Farley said during the 1936 campaign that the colored vote held the balance of power. The others he named were Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, and West Virginia. Those states are the first rate political prizes.

LITIGANTS TO CHECK RECORDS OF PURCHASES

Judge Orders Hearing Moved From Court to Office After Defense Files Protest.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O.—The taxpayer's suit of Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson, Columbus attorney, to recover twice the amount she contends the state lost by being overcharged for "hot mix" paving materials, moved into the office of Highway Director John Jaster, jr., today.

Mrs. Dickinson's suit naming Jaster and 26 others as defendants, claims the state was bilked out of between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000 on "hot mix" purchases.

The case was transferred to Jaster's office from Franklin county common pleas court for the taking of depositions because statute forbids the removal of highway department records from the state office building.

Gets Court Order.

Yesterday Mrs. Dickinson obtained a court order restraining Jaster from removing records from his office. Jaster said his department would "co-operate in every way" in the investigation.

In replay to Charles S. Druggan, counsel for the Hot Mix Bituminous Industry of Ohio Inc., who pointed out the illegality of bringing highway records to the county courthouse, Jaster said such procedure would be impractical anyway because "our files would fill half a dozen trucks."

Jaster is being represented at the hearing by Morton Icove, an assistant attorney general.

In another of Mrs. Dickinson's taxpayer's suits, Judge Henry L. Scarlett yesterday overruled a motion to release from a bank $39,000 in funds of Shaw Transport, Inc., which Mrs. Dickinson contends made a profit of 56 cents a case on a sub-let state liquor hauling contract. She has asked that the contract be dissolved.

State Liquor Director James Miller accepted Gov. Martin L. Davey's suggestion that the state require distillers and wholesalers to deliver liquor to state stores, eliminating its own warehousing and trucking operations.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

The Luck of the Puddler.

WOULDN'T IT be something if Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, nationally known as "Puddler Jim," should get the "breaks" again and be elected senator for the third time, thus establishing himself as one of the luckiest men in American politics?

By his enemies it is contended that the Puddler already has gone farther and stayed longer on less than any member of the present senate. There is room for argument about that but certainly it is true that no Republican in recent years has had his luck. Named by President Harding as secretary of labor in 1921, he clung to that post all through the six Coolidge years and even for a year after Mr. Hoover came in, though that serious statesman made no pretense of wanting him.

* * *

NO NEATER trick has been pulled in politics than the way in which the Puddler, utterly unloved by the party leaders of the Mellon-Atterbury school, then supposedly in command, held on to his cabinet position until he could step into the Pennsylvania state primaries and bag the Republican senatorial nomination. It was after his election, not before, that untoward things began to happen to him. He was indicted and tried for conducting a lottery in connection with the Loyal Order of Moose, of which he had been for years the patron and leader. After months of delay, during which many harsh things were said about him, and many predictions made that his political career was over, Mr. Davis was acquitted.

* * *

THIS HAD such a beneficial effect upon his health, which had been very poor, that, baffling all the prophets, he ran again for the senate in 1932 and was "vindicated" by another whopping majority, though in that year the Roosevelt tide was running and the Democrats were confident of carrying the state. In 1934, when Pennsylvania really did go Democratic in a big way, and again in 1936, when no Republican could have been elected, Puddler Jim sat safely in his senate seat, remote from all political peril. While Republicans all over the Union lost whatever they had to risk in that year he remained calm and secure. It is this year he has to put his fate again to the test and as the time approaches it is really amazing how much better things seem for him.

* * *

ACTUALLY, at the moment, the Puddler, who, up to eight months ago, was a very long shot, indeed, appears almost an even bet. There are some who believe that before the election the odds will be in his favor, which is a very amazing political turnover. It is not only that the Roosevelt tide, which drowned so many conspicuous members of his party in 1932, 1934 and 1936, has begun to ebb pretty fast, but even more important is the terrific split in the Guffey-Earle machine, which until recently had been considered the most formidable in the country. Now it is torn in a bitter feud. After Guffey, the supposed boss of the machine, had been thrown out the window by his own state committee he fell into line for John L. Lewis' candidate for governor, Thomas Kennedy, secretary of the United Coal Miners' union. Instead of following the senator in this direction, Governor Earle, who had announced himself a candidate for the senate, came out against the Lewis-Guffey selection and for Mr. Jones, indorsed by David Lawrence and the committee.

* * *

THAT means an ugly primary battle in which the state patronage, largely controlled by Governor Earle, and the party machinery, apparently controlled by Lawrence, will be on one side, while on the other will be Lewis and his CIO voters, plus all the federal officeholders whose allegiance is to Senator Guffey. If Jones and Governor Earle should win, it not only puts Senator Guffey completely out of the picture as a leader but it somewhat mortifyingly ends Lewis' most ambitious effort to be the boss of the state and minimizes his influence in the 1940 convention. Should the Lewis-Guffey ticket be defeated in the primaries nothing would be more natural than for the CIO influence to be thrown to the Puddler in the general election. Because the Puddler is not only a professional "friend of the people" but a labor leader in his own right and a member for more than 30 years of the steel workers' union.

* * *

IF, HOWEVER, the Lewis-Kennedy combination should win in May the leaders of the other faction would hardly be enthusiastic about a ticket the success of which would relegate them to the rear both as public officials and political managers. In brief, whichever faction wins the Puddler will profit. So, too, of course, will ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot, who seems certain of the Republican gubernatorial nomination. In the matter of political luck, some think he, too, has had his share, but those who know his history best say his luck came because he fought for it. A very different type from the Puddler, a gay and cheerful warrior, a good loser and a crusading reformer, who was a fighting Progressive long before Mr. Roosevelt was heard of, Governor Pinchot's energy and determination seem undiminished by the years, and his ability to make the most of this kind of situation has been proved. Between him and the Puddler there has never been any degree of political amity. The governor, in the past, has said some distinctly uncomplimentary things about the Puddler and, personally, they are as far apart as the Poles. All of which makes it strange to see them slated as running mates on the same ticket this fall.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—After the recent floods Los Angeles boiled its water before drinking and all public drinking fountains were ordered off in the usual fear of contamination.

One of the big downtown theaters posted this sign conspicuously over its lobby fountain:

"In Co-operation With the L. A. Board of Health. This Water Is Not Fit to Drink."

*

It stands to reason that Marlene Dietrich must wear the same outfits more than once but in a long series of recent appearances an idly curious checker reports no duplications . . . Marlene's one of the town's most consistent previewers and goers-to-everything which is keeping her in the limelight between pictures . . . The multiple wardrobe changes make her prime bait for the photographers . . .

* * *

Academy award echoes . . .

Leo McCarey copped the directorial Oscar for "The Awful Truth" but his "Make Way for Tomorrow"—in some respects a finer picture—didn't get a mention . . . The unmentioned didn't make money.

The Irving G. Thalberg memorial award to the producer contributing most to the industry—supposedly in the Thalberg tradition—went to Zanuck, whose pictures made piles and piles but were scarcely in the Thalberg tradition of almost finicky excellence.

This award, however, was in the hands of a committee, and the usual whispers of politics became a roar . . . The probable set-up: Five candidates were Zanuck, Goldwyn, Selznick, Hunt Stromberg of Metro and Pandro Berman of RKO; Selznick, Stromberg or Goldwyn should have had it—and it looked like Selznick; but Metro and Selznick haven't been getting along too well, what with "Gone With the Wind" and Selznick's releasing deal with Leo the Lion falling through; Metro's influence thrown to Zanuck, the compromise (or anybody-but-Selznick) candidate.

Zanuck, however, in a very real sense did more for the industry than anybody else last year. . . . His 20th Century-Fox product consistently hypoed the box-office.

Following the opening of the program with the current events Mrs. E. G. Corwin gave the paper "Women of the New Testament." In her talk Mrs. Corwin traced the life of Christ as reflected in the women of that period. Using the mother Mary as the central figure, she wove the characters of the other women into her report.

During the brief business session, plans for sending a girl from the Children's home to a summer camp were discussed and it was decided to make a recommendation to city council to provide more adequate police protection.

Mrs. Mercedes Walker, New York, who is here on behalf of the Mansfield Civic Music association spoke for a few minutes to the club members. The next meeting of the club will be April 5 with Mrs. Corwin at the Women's Club.

Prof. Florence Fitch Speaks On India at Travelers' Club

PROF. FLORENCE W. FITCH, Oberlin, was presented yesterday by Mrs. Hayes M. Braker when 21 members and guests of the Traveler's club met at the home of Mrs. Weston Cutter, Davis road. Prof. Fitch, who spent last year, her sabbitical year, in India studying the religions spoke on "Along The Streets of Benares."

Before going to Benares Prof. Fitch had an interview with Gandhi and he gave her a letter of introduction to Shiva Prasad Gupta, a wealthy landholder and the chief donor to the Benares Hindu university. The speaker said that she stayed in Gupta's home for several days where she had an opportunity to observe the customs of the natives.

Benares, she told the audience, is located on the sacred Ganges west of Calcutta. It is the most religious city in the world, older and more vital than Jerusalem, drawing hundreds of thousands of pilgrims each year.

It is also the cultural center of India having a great many outstanding buildings such as the moslem mosque, Mother India temple, National Theosophy building and the government guest house. One of the strangest customs of the country is the practice of washing clothing in, bathing in and drinking from the sacred tanks outside the temples. It is believed that these waters are somehow purified so as to prevent disease. Other unusual facts told were that every household, no matter how humble, has an altar, and the Hindu worships wherever he happens to be regardless of the surroundings, the confusion or the conditions.

Illustrating her lecture, Prof. Fitch used various small brasses and showed gods made of numerous materials.

"The essence of Hinduism is the oneness of all life, the inherent sacredness of all life in its simplicity. Beneras is terrible and compelling. One feels the breath of a divine presence hanging over the sacred river like a prayer. There is an inner satisfaction and a divine ecstacy felt nowhere else," Prof. Fitch said in conclusion.

Mrs. H. T. Pritchard, president of the club, presided and Mrs. William Weldon and Mrs. Edwin Mansfield poured. There will be a called meeting March 29 at the Women's club.

Spring's here! Doesn't it make you feel like getting out in the open . . . stretching out your arms to catch every vagrant breeze . . . turning your face upward to the warmth of the glorious sun.

Personally, we're tired of being dull and prosaic and dignified. We're tired to death of writing copy and trying to sell you shoes and bags and hosiery by telling you what a gorgeous or expansive line we have . . . what exquisite styling . . . you know as well as we do that Siegenthaler's would never bring you anything that wasn't in step with fashion.

We're completely fed up, and we know you are, on those trite, time-worn expressions that have been used so long they've got whiskers. Our particular peeves are Quality . . . Service . . . Smartness . . . Romance . . . Dramatic . . . etcetera . . . etcetera . . . ad infinitum! And difficult as its going to be to keep from sounding our own praises of five to seven syllables, we're going to let you supply your own "raves".

And we think that you will when you see our spring collection of originals.

CITY'S DROUGHT WORRIES OVER, STYERT CLAIMS

Supply Plentiful, Problem Now Is Enlarging of Distribution System.

Mansfield's annual drought problem is over. No longer will city officials call for water consumers to conserve the supply during hot, summer months.

That's the word from Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert who pointed out that the city's established supply in the Maxwell field is capable of producing 33 per cent more water than the maximum daily consumption as the result of the drilling of additional wells in the past year.

"People in Mansfield who have had to conserve the supply in the face of impending droughts in past years will not have to concern themselves over a water shortage this summer," Styert said. "The city has plenty of water, it's only a problem now of laying mains to enlarge the distribution system."

Part of Wells Operating.

The service director said that with only a part of the six wells in the Maxwell area operating part time, that two-thirds of the city's water is being supplied now from that source.

"A definite supply also is assured from the Clear Fork valley for years to come," Styert said. "The recent survey made by George B. Gascoigne and Associates indicated that Mansfield could depend on water from that source, at the present rate of consumption, for at least the next 15 years.

"Not only that, but the open winter with an unusual amount of rain has raised the water table in the valley since the report was made by the engineers."

He explained that while the average daily water consumpiton was approximately 4,500,000 gallons, with a maximum of 6,000,000 gallons during drought periods, that more than 8,000,000 gallons daily could be pumped from the present wells in Maxwell field without any supply from either the North Main street or Hedges station.

How Hitler Got There - -

Iron Ruler of Germany's 75,000,000 People First Tempered In Hot Flames of World War

Great events can best be understood if one understands the men behind them. Behind the great events in Europe today stands Adolf Hitler. Morgan Beatty, student of men and events, here now tells the remarkable story of Hitler's career and reports what the biographers and commentators say about him. This is the first of Beatty's three articles.

* * * * *

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

IF BARNUM were alive and running a wax works of famous living men, he probably would bill Adolf Hitler as the greatest human enigma of all time.

That of course, would be a Barnum exaggeration, but it would be a showman's way of explaining the unpredictable man who is dictator over 75 000 000 Germanic peoples.

For whatever else one may think about Hitler he certainly is a puzzle—more so than other famous dictators.

Even the beginning of his life present contraditions a tempting field for students of human character.

The Hitler ancestral home is Spittal, Austria, across the border from Germany. The region is peopled with honest, illiterate peasants, whose tragedy has long been poverty and inbreeding.

Father Strong-Willed.

Hitler's father, Alois, is pictured by biographers as a strong-willed cobbler who obtained a financial nest egg when he married the first of three wives. Then he wangled an Austrian civil service job, and started a family, moving from town to town along the border as a customs inspector. In a few years, the first Mrs. Hitler died, and Alois took a second wife. She lived only a few months after the marriage.

One day the widowed Alois spied tall, dark-eyed Clara Poelzl, a young woman who had been a housemaid for the first Mrs. Hitler. Clara had left her rural home for Vienna in her teens. Now she was back, a mature woman.

Although Alois Hitler was more than forty and fond of tavern evenings, he pursued and married Clara Poelzl, and their first child was Adolf Hitler. He was born in 1889 in Braunau, another border town. Most accounts agree the elder Hitler thought Adolf something of a weakling.

Certainly Adolf was a sensitive child, and now that he has become a national leader, biographers have dug up gossip and incidents about his early life that seemed to foreshadow coming events

Constant Cry for Union.

One of the earliest pictures you get of Hitler is that of an intense lad standing on a moon-drenched hillside bawling a political speech to a couple of fruit trees. Schoolmates hidden nearby giggled their enjoyment—and told the story to a curious world years later.

Again you are told that Hitler's border birthplace was a natural spot to develop any political sense he may have had, for along the border was heard the constant cry for a union of all Germanic peoples—a dream Hitler himself has only now brought close to reality.

The next thing you know, the lad Hitler is being expelled from school for smoking. That's odd, for Hitler, the man, neither smokes nor drinks.

Later Hitler attended a Catholic monastery school and there developed a taste for music and art—especially art. This roiled Alois who told Adolf he was to follow in his father's footsteps in the civil service. He punctuated the declaration with a spanking.

The young Hitler obviously preferred his mother. This favoritism seemed to develop in him into a reverential love for her, and a positive dislike of his father. Certain it is he fought shy in later life of alcohol and over-eating, both liked, say biographers, by the elder Hitler.

Fared Badly As Artist.

When Adolf was 13, his father died and the son continued his schooling for a while, making indifferent progress, and leaning more heavily toward that art career. Although his mother was slowly dying of cancer she determined Adolf should settle the course of his life in his own way. She helped him go to Vienna to study art when he was 17.

In a year or so the young painter, dubbed "handsome Adolf," tried to enter the Vienna School of Fine Arts but was turned down twice. Then his mother died.

For five years he lived from pillar to post, earning his bread as a hack artist, house painter, paper hanger. "In the years 1909-10," he wrote, "I had so far improved my condition as not to have to earn my daily bread as an assistant worker. I was working independently as a draughtsman and painter in water colors."

He was also dipping into history and economics, and attending political meetings now and then. Once, he says, he came across a being in a long caftan, with black side-locks. "My first thought was: Is that a Jew?" And then, "Is that a German," He studied the Semitic question a long time, he says, before concluding that Jews were not Germans.

Discards Citizenship.

In 1912 Hitler migrated to Munich. Came the World war and Hitler discarded his Austrian citizenship like a dirty shirt. He rushed to enlist in the service of the beloved Germany.

The dandy, the sensitive lad, emerged from the war four years later a man's man. He was a hero upon whom had been hung the Iron Cross for personal valor, a soldier who bore shrapnel wounds and the pain of war gas.

This was the man who was one day to awaken Germany to a new day—for better, or for worse.

Tomorrow: Defeat.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Wednesday, March 23. "See thou tell no man." Read Matthew 8:1-4.

In the prophecy of Isaiah (Ch. 39) there is a story of a visit which the king of Babylon paid to Hezekiah. Isaiah asks Hezekiah, "What have they seen in thine house?" and is told, "There is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them." That was a mistake, and the prophet went on to say so.

In the same spirit Jesus is constantly placing upon men injunctions to silence. They are not to talk too much about what they have seen, and heard, and experienced. One would have thought that he would have wished them to go out and spread the good news. Why, then, these repeated injunctions to silence? If our own experience is to be trusted, they save us from cheapening and thus from finally destroying our deepest experiences. We live in an age which encourages unlimited self-expression, and self-display. What a reassurance it is to meet in this America of ours—where self-advertisement has become an epidemic—someone who does not show you all his treasures. And how much of the permanence and the worth to us of our more intimate experiences depend upon our hearing and heeding the swift, instinctive injunction to silence;—"No, that is better left untold."

Prayer: Vouchsafe to us, O God, some treasures in our lives that need not be shown to others, since they are hidden with thee. Amen.

GRAND OPERA IN CLEVELAND DUE FOR NEW RECORD

Already Record-Holder, City Expects to Break Old Attendance Mark.

Once a year the center of the opera world shifts from the Broadway home of the Metropolitan opera of New York to the 9,000-seat Cleveland public auditorium a block from the city's public square, where world's records for attendance at grand opera are enthusiastically broken year after year. The season this year is from April 4 to 9.

The advance sale this year has been brisker than it was in 1937, and sponsors of the Cleveland season are confident that 1938 will see even higher marks for attendance established

Never Lose Money.

Cleveland is unique in the nation as the only city with a civic partnership in grand opera which is shared by the municipal government, an opera committee of leading business men and more than 400 underwriters who guarantee an annual budget of more than $150,000 for a week of Metropolitan opera. Cleveland also is unique as the only city where there never has been a call upon the guarantors to meet a cent of deficit.

Many music lovers from Mansfield and other nearby cities go to Cleveland for one or more operas, and some for the full week.

Opera With Bank Account!

Last year the world record, then held by Cleveland, was broken again with a smashing attendance of 66,604 at eight performances in a single week—more than ever heard grand opera in a week before anywhere on earth. Encouraged by this and a tidy bank balance of some $16,000, underwriters flocked in this year again. The Metropolitan in Cleveland is under direction of the Northern Ohio Opera association, for which Robert J. Bulkley, United States senator from Ohio, and Thomas L. Sidlo are chairman and vice chairman.

Likes Slender Stars.

Slim and streamlined stars are the favorites in Cleveland, which takes pride this year in opening the gala week with Helen Jepson, beautiful American soprano from Akron and whose parents now live in Cleveland, in Verdi's "La Traviata" with the trim tenor, Nino Martini, and the veteran John Charles Thomas

Two Clevelanders who have joined the select circle of the Metropolitan, Donald Dickson and Thelma Votipka, will also be heard in the season. To this city for her Metropolitan debut before her New York appearance will come Amri Galli-Campi, the newest coloratura-soprano discovery and potential rival of Lily Pons.

Quick to seize upon New York successes, the Cleveland committee picked handsome matinee idol Jan Kiepura, the new Polish tenor, to sing in "Rigoletto" and "La Boheme" after he had taken 30 curtain calls in his recent debut in the Metropolitan Opera house With him in the latter opera will be Grace Moore.

With a huge second-generation foreign population, Cleveland offers a variety of national operas. from the Czech "The Bartered Bride" through the Italian "Aida," "Pagliacci," "Cavalleria Rusticana" to the German dramas of Wagner, "Tristan and Isolde" and "Tannhacuser," with the New York best sellers, Kirsten Glagstad and Lauritz Melchior

68 MORE ILL WITH MEASLES

New Cases Boost County Total to 198; Other Contagious Diseases Also Increase.

Communicable diseases in Richland county showed a steady increase in the past week, health department records revealed today.

Heading the list was measles with 68 new cases reported in the past week to bring the total to 198 since the first of the month Fifty of the new cases were in the city and 18 in various parts of the county

In the past week 13 new cases of scarlet fever also were reported to the health department, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county commissioner said. In all, 38 cases have been reported since the first of the month. Five were in the city while eight were scattered throughout the county

Dr. Rehder said there was no cause for alarm over the number of cases of scarlet fever, which was still comparatively low considering the fact that the disease usually occurs in cycles and passes among a certain number of susceptible persons.

Chicken pox showed a slight increase of eight new cases in the county to bring that total to 29 since March 1. Eleven of the cases are in the city and 18 in the county.

CRITICISM OF 'CRUCIFIXION' AROUSES COLLECTOR'S WRATH

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Lord Duveen of Milbank, internationally famous art authority and dealer, allegedly looked at the painting "Crucifixion," by Piero Della Francesca, at an auction in 1929, and commented in a loud voice:

"Ruined, ruined, retouched, no good, not worth anything!"

As the result, the wealthy English nobleman, who has paid $875,000 for a single picture, is a defendant in New York state supreme court in a $2,000,000 suit brought by Carl W. Hamilton, art collector and dealer.

Hamilton charged that Duveen and others damaged his professional reputation and depreciated the value of his paintings, although later the eminent critic and dealer bought the "Crucifixion" for $375,000 Subsequently he sold it to Mrs. John D. Rockefeller.

Duveen also depreciated the value of "The Madonna and Child," by Fra Filippo Lippi, according to the complaint, and, with the other defendants, allegedly informed the following persons that the two pictures were worthless·

The late Andrew W. Mellon, Jules S Bache, Mrs. Rockefeller (as to "The Madonna and Child" only), Joseph Widener, Miss Helen Frick, Leon Chinasi, Edsel Ford, Thomas Donlon, Mrs. Charles Payson, Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart, Princess Braganza Mrs. Frederick Guest, J. NINE CARRY ON OLD TRADITIONS

Indian Tribe Dwindles But Descendants Remain.

The tribal lore started centuries ago with the banding together on mud-western plains of a group of sturdy aborigines

Last chieftain of the Piankashaws, George Washington Finley, died in 1933. Those left to tell the story of the tribe are his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Barnard of Tulsa, and her children, Oletha, Leota and Charles; his son, Leo Finley; his grandchildren, Carol Jeanne, Dixie Dean, John and Jim Finley, who live in Miami, Okla

FOR COMPROMISE

War Veteran Groups Favor New Pension Proposal.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Fear of a new economy act appears to have thwarted a drive for a costly pension to widows and orphans of World war veterans.

Service organizations which sought such a pension now are supporting an administration-approved "compromise" it was learned. The new plan, incorporated in a bill quietly reported the house World war veterans committee, would broaden the present pension law for veterans' widows and orphans.

Introduced by Chairman John E. Rankin, D., Miss., of the veterans committee, it would pension widows and orphans of veterans who were 10 per cent disabled at death as a result of war service Present law requires 20 per cent disability but death need not be the result of service disabilities.

The veterans administration estimated that the proposed revision would give relief to 7,100 families during the first year and would cost $1,111,200.

PUZZLE NATIVES

EXETER, Calif.—(AP)—After drying up 15 years ago, Hamilton lake is again a big body of water surrounded by marsh grass. So far so good.

But many people are puzzled by this question:

"How does the new lake happen to be stocked with catfish?"

CROWNS TASTE FINER THAN BLENDS OF "THE OLD DAYS"

Experts have proved it
Seagram asked its staff of experts—men long experienced in judging fine whiskies—to compare the taste of famous blended whiskies of the old days—side by side—with Crowns. The whiskies were served in plain glasses. No one knew which was which.
Every man chose Crowns. "Richer...smoother...finer tasting" was the verdict!
Finer taste always wins! Since 1934, over 129 million bottles of Crowns have been sold... quarts, pints—all sizes.
The real reason for the finer taste of Crowns is a blending skill—a craftsmanship that dates back to the days of Joseph E. Seagram in 1857.
At the bar or wherever you buy—think before you drink... say Seagram's and be sure.

—Advice—

Husband, Average Sort of Man

By VIRGINIA LEE

From Mother Eve up to the present time, no woman ever married a perfect man Every single one of Father Adam's descendants has had a goodly number of faults.

Every one has blamed his particular Eve for whatever went wrong at home, and every woman has been ready with an alibi and has privately, if not publicly, thought the man was to blame.

L. F writes me a long letter which, she says, even if I don't read to the end, has furnished her with relief because she got it off her chest. It might be the biography of many couples They married when she was 19 and he 26. Now she is 26, he 33 They have two small children His business calls him here and there and they never have much money She has to wear clothes sent her by relatives, and her family helps her out.

Her husband never gives her any money for herself, and once in awhile he could, she writes When her father gives her money he spends it to go to look for work—which he never finds He also never notices what she wears unless to criticize (where have I heard that plaint before?). He kisses her goodby when he leaves, but with no particular affection Just a habit Occasionally he leaves his family and is gone all day and once in awhile all night When he returns he finds fault with his wife, which, of course, proves that he feels guilty Several times he has told his wife that he only stayed with her on account of the children, of whom both of them are very fond. However, when he has said things like that he has afterwards acknowledged that he was angry and didn't mean it He sometimes hurts her by seeming irreligious and he lies and "knocks" other people Never has a good word for anyone She doesn't want to leave him, she states Just wants "a certain amount of peace and happiness"

Just Average Man

It looks as if the "peace and happiness" you want so much will have to be created by you, my dear Your husband is just an average man takes his family for granted, does what he wants to or what he has to unthinkingly Doesn't like to be scolded and tries to stave it off when he knows he deserves it by finding fault with you Says what he doesn't mean when he's mad—don't we all? Probably lies thinking he is being funny

On the asset side, he isn't a bad husband—as men go Loves his children, doesn't spend money on himself when he has it, and longs for more social security, such as this chicken farm Probably is embarrassed when you try to be affectionate with him He has gotten out of the habit of showing his feelings for you Don't bother him, but show him that you love him nevertheless, even if you have to put it on a little There never was a person who would not eventually respond to affection and appreciation Don't give him the money when your father sends you a check, and be a martyr. Spend the money on yourself and the children as these trips he takes with it never net him work

I know it is hard living from hand to mouth as you do but so many people are doing it, and we just have to get all the fun out of life we can in little ways—the funny things the children say, the odd things that happen every day, the family jokes; and joy out of making over old clothes so that they are becoming and look nice In praising and loving each other, and in keeping even the poorest of homes pleasant

Your long letter to me relieved your mind of a weight I hope this long answer will give you a few suggestions and so help you to keep gay and cheerful for your own and children's sake even if it doesn't affect hubby Good luck, my dear

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

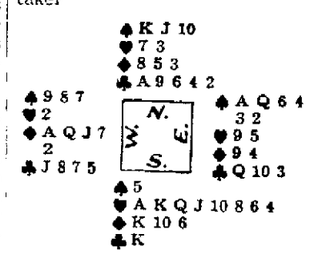
"The Authority on Authorities"

NO TIME FOR TRUTH

SCRUPULOUS attention to the defenders' play can frequently disclose to a wise declarer the nature of their plot against him Sometimes his only chance to foil them is to deceive them about his holding by timely false-carding. This usually means playing a higher-than-necessary card to some trick, perhaps wasting one which at first glance looks like a potential trick taker



(Dealer West Neither side vulnerable)

West and North passed on this deal and after an opening bid of 1-Spade by East South jumped to 4-Hearts

West led the spade 9 which was covered by the 10 in dummy and East won with the Q The diamond 9 was East's return on which South played the 10 and West took the trick with the J When West continued with the diamond A, the declarer, John Godfrey Saxe, prominent New York attorney, did some rapid calculating and decided that East was hoping for a third round ruff To confuse West, Mr Saxe casually dropped his diamond K on the A The ruse was successful, for West then switched to the spade 8, as he felt sure East held three diamonds originally It seemed inconceivable to him that South would have sacrificed a possible winner. He had not reckoned on the shrewdness of his opponent, whose quick thinking earned him a victory.

The spade A was ruffed, trumps drawn and the club K overtaken with the A. The spade K provided a spot for the losing diamond.

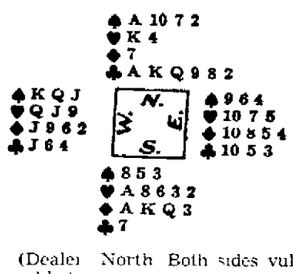
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer North Both sides vulnerable)

After the lead of the spade K, how should South play for his contract of 6-Hearts?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, March 24.

A DAY of remarkable and surprising developments may be looked for, judging by the planetary auguries A visitation of major importance may be expected, but without any hint of its sudden arrival or possibly sensational aspects This may mean a sudden death or another catastrophe that may call for a hasty journey. Be wise with money and maintain poise and good judgment.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is need not be surprised if a sudden event of major significance descends upon the life with telling and far-reaching effect on the future It is possible that death or another calamity in connection with an elderly person may be at the root of this upheaval and readjustment to new conditions and environs In all this be wise with employers, keep an eye on the budget and maintain poise and sound regulation of exciting situations, and much progress may be made.

A child born on this day may be practical, hard-headed, constructive and enterprising, although restless, fond of adventure and frequently uprooting itself from established conditions It may wrest definite success from varied difficulties and dangers.

Various Topics Discussed By Expert

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs Post: Is it an exaction of formal service to serve after-dinner coffee in the living room? Is it ever proper, then, to follow this practice in an informal house?

Answer. Yes, it is an exaction of formal service but it is also the custom in just as many completely informal houses. In other words, some hostesses like to have the coffee served at the table while others—I would say, most—prefer it in the living-room no matter whether the family is alone or whether they are having a party.

* * *

Dear Mrs Post, Is it wrong to ask a husband and wife to be godparents of our child? I mean, is it better to ask people of different families entirely?

Answer It is better to ask people of different families so that the child will have the advantage of several godparents should he by an unfortunate chance be bereft of his parents. Choosing a husband and wife is just about the same thing as having only one godparent

* * *

Dear Mrs Post My baby daughter has just received the baby pieces matching my set of flat silver. These were given to her plain, with instructions that they be marked as we preferred Are these children's pieces marked to match mine—with three initials—or with hers? I honestly have never noticed I suppose the jeweler will tell me what is customary but I would first of all like to know what you advise.

Answer These are marked in exactly the same style of engraving as yours, but with the child's own initials

* * *

Dear Mrs Post I have a friend who was about to start divorce proceedings when her husband died All her intimate friends knew of their unhappiness. She asked me to write you what she should do about mourning. She feels that if she observes the etiquette of mourning she may appear hypocritical, and on the other hand, not to may set her up as heartless She is wearing mourning at the funeral because, not having your advice beforehand, she feels that is the best choice. But what about afterwards?

Answer: If I were she, I would wear black and white, or grey. For example, clothes without color but clothes that in no sense are conspicuously or even necessarily mourning I think it would be better not to wear black stockings, or black gloves either unless she has been accustomed to wearing them Certainly it would be better not to put a black border on her cards. In other words, going into real mourning would seem hypocritical while absence of color would merely be avoiding flaunting of the fact that she is not really in mourning.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

MARY HAD outlined a full afternoon and evening for the most enthusiastic of young women To me it seemed a series of mountain peaks to climb, each one of them more difficult than the one foregoing. But, I reminded myself, I might as well "be hung for a sheep as for a lamb," and from somewhere I pumped up a semblance of enthusiasm with which to invest my answer to her

"It certainly sounds like a complete program" I said, smiling at her. I was glad that I had made the effort when I saw the relief in her answering smile

"This seeing New York bureau' has a rep of being the best in the city," she retorted 'Okay then, here we go! Will you shower first or shall I?'

'You please," I said, feeling that I should shriek aloud if I had to continue talking another minute

"Yours to command!" she said, blowing me a kiss, but I noticed that she carefully kept her eyes averted from my face I realized with shocked chagrin that I had not deceived her with my pretense of enthusiasm, but that she was determined to carry through her plan because she honestly thought it to be the best scheme with which to combat my dolor

Nerves Take Toll.

I waited only until the bathroom door closed after her before dashing to Miss Whitlock's empty room locking the door behind me to be sure that Mary did not catch me unawares And then for five minutes, my ravaged nerves took toll of me.

As if I were some feral trapped animal, I ranged—and raved—up and down the room too angry for tears, my fingers clenching into my palms, unheeding the tearing imprint of the nails

I was not in the least angry at Mary for dragging me out "for a time," against my inclination Instead, my heart was very warm with gratitude for the loving thoughtfulness with which she was caring for me in this humiliating episode, in which the unknown drunken woman had played a leading role

But I was furious at Dicky. Never, since the first year of my marriage, in which Grace Draper, now gone into eternity, had played so hectic a part, had I been subjected to so humiliating an experience.

There had been many tragic happenings in my life, notably the terrible experience culminating in the death of Grace Draper. But for sheer, crass humiliation, the experience of the night before topped anything I ever had known.

Restrains Shriek.

I had all I could do to control the primitive instinct to shriek at the top of my lungs, to tear my hair and my flesh. I was astounded at the intensity of my own anger, positively afraid of myself, as well as intensely ashamed, while I fought myself back to sanity and calmness

As it was I barely had time to unlock Miss Whitlock's door and get back into the living room to an armchair by the window, with my head bent over a book, before Mary, rosy from her shower and wrapped in a "Paris" bath robe, which I had made for her from huge bath towels, came into the room

"This is the comfiest thing" she declared, and I knew that she was carefully making conversation 'It's wonderful if you happen to feel lazy You don't have to rub yourself dry But you're a conscientious soul You won't yield to its seduction Now, me for a rest of 10 minutes Ta-ta Darling. Enjoy yohself!"

Now if you are not serving meat at all during Lent, you can make a vegetable plate take the place of the lamb stew. The nuts over the banana will help you out on the protein element in your meal. Of course, lamb as the basis of stew needs no introduction in most households. Shank, breast, neck or shoulder can be used. Lamb stew is good when served with noodles, or dumplings, or baking powder biscuits A combination, suggestive of the Orient, is lamb stew with boiled rice A teaspoon of curry powder adds a fine flavor.

Today's Recipes.

POTATO SOUP — Cook three small potatoes, a cut-up stalk of celery and a small onion in a little salted water until well done. Drain off the excess water, and press through a wire sieve. In the saucepan put a tablespoon of butter add one-half tablespoon of flour, and, when butter melts, mix it smooth with a spoon, then gradually add a pint of milk, stirring all the while so that it does not get lumpy When smooth and thickened slightly add potato mixture, season with pepper and salt and serve hot About two-thirds teaspoon of salt should be the correct amount, and a sprinkling of pepper. Better too little than too much salt, you know, but taste to see that it is well seasoned.

SMART NEW LIGHTWEIGHT SUIT

Petalwate is the name of this new light-weight tweed which fashions a smart three-piece suit with the three-quarter length casual coat so much in vogue now Notice the soft roll of the collar on the topcoat which contrasts so smartly with the single-breasted belted suit coat The pocket in the topper and the bow under the chin are new fashion notes Natural color slip-on gloves and a wide brimmed hat complete the costume

Comfort and Style In New Spring Suits

New spring suits pay strict heed to the demands of well-dressed men the country over . . . they're a direct response to the call for more comfort and more style. Thus the popular drape style has been extended and emphasized to give increased roominess and freedom of action The popularity of the drape is proved, and it is now as necessary to fashion style as the custom of dressing itself Waistlines have been lowered, lapels are almost shoulder wide in both single and double breasted models, tailoring emphasizes wider shoulders tapering in soft lines to a narrower waist The whole effect excludes severe lines and gives the impression of unaffected, untailored casualness

Special soft construction flatters every figure, developing good points and minimizing bad. The easy lines give all models a chesty appearance, and the added length of the jacket allows freer action with no binding across the shoulders or under the arm The trousers are worn high on the waist and drape to an inch below shoe-tops

This spring fabrics are lighter than ever, which aids in the desired drape styling All fabrics feature patterned design with new colors and combinations. A light worsted tweed has been featured at this winter's Southern resorts and is very popular for its adaptability to the new drape.

Spring flannels are featured in assorted patterns and colors for suit and odd-trouser sets. This fabric is successfully tailored in drape and lounge styles. Gabardines in all colors and patterns are worn from spring into summer. They combine beauty with unsurpassed duty, and are now acceptable for business and formal wear. Shetlands, cashmeres and homespuns are gaining in popularity because of new lightweights and selection of colors and patterns.

Patterns Feature Color.

With the stamp of approval from custom tailors both here and abroad, stripes for spring prove a real tonic from the drab winter. In wide, pin-point and alternating patterns stripes are laid on backgrounds of dusty shades of blue, grey, tan and popular mixtures.

Always essential to the complete wardrobe are plaids. All plaids are subdued in design and color There is a soft blending of pattern and color that gives a rich, luxurious tone to the drape styles.

Light fabrics, rich colors subdued patterns new lines . . . all sum up to the one big style hit of the season· Casual Drape! Its universal appeal makes it the unanimous choice of all men who are keyed to selections of style

JIGGER COAT PROVES POPULAR

Fashion scouts who predicted that the jigger coat would have lasting popularity were right, as this smart light colored model indicates It is a slim line collarless style with slit pockets on both sides It is worn over a simple dark tailored dress with black pumps, bag, and off-the-face hat

New Hairlines Style New Hats

Looking to her curls, this season's fashionable woman chooses the high little hats that tilt conveniently upward to display her new coif. Or she chooses an amusing "pitched forward" sailor or brimmed hat and wears it forward so that her newly placed high curls are properly displayed at the back.

CHECK TWEEDS, GIANT PLAIDS IN NEW BRITISH MIXIT MODE

Fashion checks the British entries in the fashion race this spring! Plaids houndstooth checks nubby Scotch tweeds and plaids have all gained favor with the American sportswoman Backed by the college group, these new 'mixit' suits combine in every color and type, with special favor shown to the mannish jackets and simple pleated or gored tweed skirts in blending hues Norfolk jackets double-breasted or single-breasted styles are all in favor Patch pockets in many amusing shapes give the only variation to these classic styles

Being as young as possible, the smart woman this spring will vary her mixit wardrobe with bolero jackets Looking very girlish and chic, she wears these in plain soft colors or colorful tweeds, with pleaded skirts for more tailored moods, she combines the bolero with a simply tailored skirt and a skirt with matching tie And for country wear she may even use a bolero jacket with her neatly tailored slacks, or with a tweedy skirt and sweater

With soft suits favored for all daytime occasions, the more feminized versions in twill jackets and other light woolens, are worn with matching or contrasting skirts to create smartly tailored daytime suits Three-piece suit costumes are also created by the addition of a classic tweed reefer coat or a dressy casual topcoat.

Fashions Worn By 'Big Sister' Also For Little Tots

Because it's definitely a "Suit Spring" smart little people are wearing suits—miniature suits for tots of four to six decidedly smart suits for girls copying their big sisters Bolero suits and trim little fitted suits in Eton effect are preferred by very small people while classic tailored suits with reefer topcoats are the popular choice of bigger little girls

Boxy jigger coats are the perfect topcoat for spring little fashionables declare and they wear best in every lovely pastel color in this rainbow mode Brother and sister coats in classic tailored styling are favored by mothers and sister coats in trim fitted styles are also a popular fashion

Swirl skirts and the gay swing coats of the young frocks are shown in bright prints and lively pastels Dainty stitchings and crisp white trims give these in especial accents effect

Bags Bigger, But Better, Too

For a real change the smart woman wears a huge handbag with her suit For travel business and many occasions these new bags are roomy and practical and when worn with oversize sportsuit straps they have a jaunty air

Novelties for spring include new bandana bags in prints or colorful leather

$500,000 WPA PROGRAM SET UP FOR SHELBY

Proposed Work Relief Plan Covering 3-Year Period Filed In Columbus.

A proposed three-year work program totaling $500,000 for the city of Shelby had been filed today with WPA headquarters in Columbus.

The proposal includes a street program in the amount of $170,000, a recreational project totaling $50,000, park development program to cost $90,000, a sanitation program of $140,000, and a new city hall estimated at $50,000.

Of the total cost, the sponsor, which is the city in some cases and the city and property owners jointly in others, would be required to finance approximately $150,000 as their share.

Glenn Weller, city-WPA engineer said the proposed work plan now under consideration by Shelby had been filed with WPA and that proposals on individual projects would follow in the order listed. The entire plan, he said was in addition to all other projects that have been filed with WPA.

Would Grade 12 Streets

The street program will include the grading of 12 city streets at an estimated cost of $30,000, a combination curb and gutter project to cost $20,000, street paving estimated at $110,000, and a storm sewer project at $10,000.

A recreational program designed to employ 30 persons during all seasons of the year and aimed at curbing juvenile delinquency has been estimated at $50,000.

A park development program that calls for the expenditure of $90,000 over a three-year period includes additional playgrounds, city beautification and a proposed park pavalion.

Included in the sanitation program is the proposal for a water softening plant added to the water works at the cost of $80,000, extensions in the water distribution system at the cost of $40,000, and sanitary sewer extensions totaling $20,000.

Meanwhile the Shelby city council has approved a $14,813 recreational program which will employ 19 persons on the program set up as a 12-month project.

Ex-Coal Company Employe Gets Jail Term for Embezzlement.

A former employe of the Estes Coal and Ice company, 575 North Main street, convicted in muncipal court yesterday on a charge of embezzlement, was sentenced to 60 days in county jail.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended 50 days of the sentence if Lawrence Mugrage, 27, of Marietta, re-imburses his former employer, Clyde Estes for the $26 which he was charged with misappropriating. Mugrage was returned here Saturday by Sheriff E. P. Long from Marietta where he fled early in February.

Which Do You Buy

LAWN SEED or GRASS SEED?

Nature provides grasses which grow quickly and are short-lived . . . while others mature slowly, but once established grow for many years. That's why it pays you to buy the best lawn seed, if you want a beautiful lawn, and one that will mature into a sound, lasting turf. Our lawn seeds are properly adapted to the soils of this community.

"By far the best time to give your lawn the nourishment it requires is early spring . . . just as the frost leaves the ground."

Gardeners who feed lawns early enjoy the following advantages:

1. The grass gets a "head start" on weeds.
2. Plant food is easier to apply — no watering-in necessary.
3. The job gets done while you have time to spare.

Feed with Vigoro, the clean, odorless plant food that supplies the 11 food elements plants require from the soil.

TARDINESS AND TRUANCY DROPS

Reduction of Nearly 50 Per Cent Reported For Last Month by School Head.

There was a marked decline in both truancy and tardiness in Mansfield public schools last month, the report of Supt. W. L. Miller showed today.

Tardiness in the school system in February totaled 613 with 24 truancy cases, as compared with 1,112 cases of tardiness and 44 of truancy in January.

Despite the smallpox outbreak in the city last month, attendance in the schools remained at 93.3 per cent, the same as in January, the report showed.

Leading the city's schools in attendance was the Carpenter school with a percentage of 96.6. John Simpson Junior high and the Western Avenue schools, with 95.5 per cent each, were tied for second place.

During the month, Senior high school wrested the enrollment leadership from John Simpson Junior high, and the high school now leads the junior high by 142 pupils. At the same time last month the John Simpson school had an enrollment of 1,316 as compared with 1,289 students in Senior high school. The present figures show Senior high leading, 1,364 to 1,222.

Total enrollment in the city's public schools dropped off from 6,430 last month to 6,372.

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

South Sea Colors 'Pep' Spring Mode

Inspired by the recent vogue for South Sea travel and movies, "Technicolor Hues" brighten and blend in the most beautiful color mode seen in many years Half-tones and Muted Pastels are keyed in strange new color harmonies, and bright soft colors accent the many navy and black costumes chosen by fashionable women. A very new expression of this artistic new handling of colors is seen in the blending of several gradations of the same color, with undertones of mist gray or overtones of sunny yellows, creating a lovely symphony of color within the costume ensemble

Tropic Gardens in Spring Prints.

Expressing the mode for crowded colors, with the blending of many tones and hues, spring prints in daytime frocks have a gay tropical garden effect that is new and lovely. Many real-like flowers are sprinkled in profusion over dark or pastel grounds

Wildflower prints in realistic designs, quaint daisy and other old-fashioned patterns give amusing relief to black or navy grounds of tailored frocks Panels of flowers make lively stripes especially lovely in pleated dresses or blouses.

Under-Sea Pastels in New Suits.

Blending perfectly with the flattering prints in dresses and blouses, new coats and suits are shown in a delightful range of pastels So muted and closely harmonized are these colors that they might have been borrowed from the enchanting hues of undersea gardens And in the new soft woolens, they blend so perfectly that a whole series of costumes may be assembled with separate skirts, jackets and coats.

Soft bluish greens, golden shades of green, rosy pinks, misty yellows and bluish violet shades are worn in this year's spring suits and coats Furs, too, find their own delightful color blendings, and are tinted in flattering tones to harmonize with coats or suits.

More exotic Mexican colors are effective in gay colored accessories with neutral tweed suits. With the new oatmeal tweeds, and soft gray suits, gay printed blouses, turbans and scarfs add a youthful touch which is very flattering. A whole range of tans and rust hues or rose tones are especially effective with the neutral beige or gray tweeds, too.

CITY HURRIES TO BEGIN WPA JOBS

The work relief program approved by council last night includes the renewal of the sidewalk repair program that will involve the expenditure of $33,588. The program was started last year. They also authorized the hiring of a sidewalk inspector to supervise the construction, at the salary of $125 per month. A price of 14 cents per square foot for a five-inch concrete walk was agreed upon.

An appropriation of $400 was approved to supplement the $1,100 set up for the widening of Glessner avenue at the hospital. The project already approved by WPA calls for the setting back of the curb 10 feet along the hospital frontage.

Council also authorized an appropriation of $200 to provide for the release of a WPA project which will include the taking of an inventory of city property and the setting up of a permanent inventory file.

It was explained by Glenn Weller, city-WPA engineer that the project would give employment to six people for a 12-month period

In the meantime however, council action on the $11,000 water expansion program that would use WPA labor, approved at a caucus session last Friday has been deferred until the next meeting

C. N Shultz, chairman of council's water committee, asked council to defer action on the measure until more consideration could be given to the Woodland project, which he outlined with an expenditure of $55,000, as a means to provide for additional employment for WPA.

THEATER

THE HITLER coup in Austria has hit Hollywood hard, for a number of well known stars, as well as directors and technicians, hail from there, among them the new Francesco Gaal, Luise Rainer and Paul Lukas Many of them have their families there. One prominent director doesn't dare cable his family for fear it will attract Nazi attention to members of it Luise Rainer's father is in Vienna, Hedy LaMarr has a mother there and Rose Stradner, who made her debut in "Last Gangster" has both a father and mother. They are torn with anxiety for the welfare of their parents, but are afraid to communicate with them Among the early stars who hailed from Austria were Eric Von Stroheim and the lovely Vilma Bankey, now Mrs Rod LaRoque.

Heart Stirring Drama.

Placed in the stirring days of Lincoln, with a small Ohio river town as a background, "Of Human Hearts" is a drama particularly rich in human interest and heart appeal An entire Ohio village of the 1850 period was reconstructed for the filming of the story of the hard-bitten circuit rider, his self-sacrificing wife and his ambitious young son The action carries through the years of one family, picturing the rising tide of the Civil war and the years in which the mother sacrificed even her food for her son's education: his success as a surgeon, his rise in the army and his neglect of his mother which is brought sharply to him when Abe Lincoln shames him into realization Walter Huston Beulah Bondi and James Stewart have the major roles, while Guy Kibbee, Ann Rutherford, and Charles Colburn are seen in supporting role Lincoln is played by John Carradine The picture opens at the Madison Thursday for three days

Follies Gay Paree.

Roscoe Ails, formerly with the Earl Carroll Vanities, "New Moon" and other Broadway musical shows and who has made several short subjects films, will head the bill of specialty acts in "Follies Gay Paree" which the Ohio theater presents the last two days of the week Aiding Ails in this melange of song, dance and pulchritude, is Betty Lewis who has been identified with Fred Allen and Ed Wynn programs. The Follies carries a seven piece orchestra and a number of entertainers, among them Yvonne Le Roux, dance creator, whose "Pas Chiffonaise" is a headliner of the show The bill is made up of song and dance acts, swing music, patter and comedy It comes to Mansfield from the larger picture houses over the country. The mystery film drama "Arsene Lupin Returns" will be offered with the stage show on Friday and Saturday. Today and Thursday the Ohio continues the "Goldwyn Follies".

Tale of Adventure.

"Midnight Intruder" which spins a tale of comedy, mystery and romance, continues at the Majestic today and Thursday, along with "Charge of the Light Brigade" with Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland The plot of "Midnight Intruder" revolves around Barry Gilbert a dashing adventurer. When he poses as the son of a wealthy publisher, he steps into a bog of trouble from which he is rescued only by his quick wit. The wife of the man he impersonates threatens to expose him; he is compelled to become a sleuth to free an innocent man, he falls in love with a girl whose father is mixed up in a murder—these are a few of the adventures he encounters in the story. Barbara Reed, and Louise Hayward, English actor, head the cast.

Talented Newcomers.

Two of the most promising—and prettiest—of the young, little known newcomers in pictures, are seen in "Alcatraz Island", the Warner drama built around the famous federal prison. Ann Sheridan and Mary Maguire have talent and beauty and are just starting their picture careers. Miss Sheridan has appeared in "San Quentin" and "Wine, Woman and Horses" She plays a gangster's sweetheart in her current picture. Miss Maguire is a native of Australia John Litel, who is seen frequently in pictures these days, plays the gangster. "Double Wedding", a gay, nonsensical comedy, starring Myrna Loy and William Powell, is the second attraction at the Ritz

Back on Screen

Walter Huston distinguished star of stage and screen makes his first screen appearance since his famous "Dodsworth", as the hard-bitten circuit rider of early Ohio in "Of Human Hearts", which will be shown at the Madison theater three days starting Thursday. The picture is an adaption of Honore Morrow's stirring saga of one small family, 'Benefits Forgot' The picture is being presented by the Mansfield branch of American University women as a benefit for their $5 000 scholarship fund

HOLLYWOOD — (NS) — Henry "Hank" Luisetti, who holds the world's record for scoring in basketball, today held a film contract which calls for him to star in a picture at the Paramount lot. The film, will be started when Luisetti, a native of San Francisco's Italian colony, finishes school in June.

BARON IN HOSPITAL

CLEVELAND — (NS) — Another stiff punch to the midsection was suffered today by the Cleveland Barons when it was announced that Earl Bartholome, star left winger, hand entered Huron road hospital for observation after an appendicitis attack.

Indian Outfielder Refuses to Accept 'Final' Offer of $11.000.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — It will take a $14,000 salary to induce Julius Solters to leave his beloved Pennsylvania farm and join the Cleveland Indians for the 1938 season, the hard-hitting outfielder said today.

The lone remaining Cleveland holdout, yclept "Moose," disclosed at his bucolic Mars, Pa., acres that the Tribe had offered him $11,000 for his 1938 chores.

"That's an increase of $500 over my 1937 salary," said Solters. "I am asking $14,000 and I think I'm worth every penny of it."

Vice President C. C. Slapnicka's telegram carrying the $11,000 figure came as an "absolutely final" offer, Solters said.

"I intend to stay on the farm until they push the ante up to $14,000," the "Moose" asserted. "I keep in shape working around the farm. I do a lot of walking every day and have kept my legs in condition."

Solters previously was understood to have demanded $17,000.

Meanwhile at the Indians' New Orleans training camp, Outfielder Earl Averill nursed a blistered foot, a painful if not serious affliction.

Sammy Hale, veteran infielder, departed from the tepee for Hot Springs, Ark., to attempt to rid his arm of poison which affected the member after an operation for the removal of his tonsils.

Vitt to Send Humphries to Hill.

LAFAYETTE, La.—(UP)—Johnny Humphries, hailed as one of the finest pitching prospects to come to the majors in the last decade, will receive his initial test of the season here today when he hurls for the Cleveland Indians against the Jersey City team of the International league.

Manager Oscar Vitt has let Humphries take things easy thus far as he was convinced of the youngster's ability. However, he said Humphries would work in his regular turn for the remainder of the spring exhibition grind.

For the first time since they came to camp three weeks ago, the Indians lost a drill yesterday because of rain. The weather caused postponement of the scheduled contest with the New Orleans Pelicans.

Indians Get Another Look at Nowak Today.

LAFAYETTE, La. — (AP) — The Indians get a look today at Bill Nowak, the rookie second baseman who went to the Giants in a contract muddle two weeks ago. Cleveland faces Jersey City with Nowak at second for the Giants' Farm club.

Leaders Face Tail-Enders

Facing a team which has not won a game this year, the First Lutheran cagers are expected to clinch a share of the Class A Church league title tonight when they meet United Presbyterian at the Y. M. C. A. at 10.

To win the title outright, the Lutherans will have to beat Park Avenue Baptist next week, and the Baptists, like the Presbyterians, have not won a game this season.

Mayflower meets Central M. E., Baptist tackles St. Johns, and First M. E. faces St. Pauls in other games tonight.

BAUGH HOLDS SPOTLIGHT, BUT PROBABLY WON'T PLAY THIRD

FRANKIE FRISCH

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Professional football has lost its greatest rookie to baseball—maybe.

Slingin' Sam is a Gas House Gangster now.

Sammy Baugh, who sailed the Washington Redskins right into the pro championship with his freshman flipping exploits, has joined the young army trying to patch up the Cardinals' infield.

The Texan has a strong arm with a baseball as well as a pigskin and an hour after he hit camp he was pegging 'em across the diamond from third to first.

He's never played pro baseball and it's doubtful if any thoroughly inexperienced recruit ever drew the attention from the hardened veterans that Baugh attracts at the St. Louis camp close by the bay here.

Sammy played semi-pro baseball in Texas and was quite a whiz, with a pretty potent bat, but he won't dominate baseball's pro circles as he overshadowed the footballers. He looks some years away from the majors.

The Cards may carry him along awhile for the publicity value and gate attraction of his name, but he'll probably wind up on one of the St. Louis chain-gang farms. Frankie Frisch has a lot of guys trying for third base—Art Garibaldi, Frency Bordagaray, Ott Stein and Terry Moore—and it's pretty certain that one of them will get the nod before Baugh.

* * *

The Gas House Gangsters are known for their inelegant haberdashery and Boss Frankie Friesch tops 'em all. Burned red as a beet, Frankie hobbles around the park in a dirty white sweatshirt, baggy baseball trousers and with a bedroom slipper on one foot and a white tennis shoe on the other. He broke some bones in his foot fiddling around at the Cards' Winter Haven school, but the injury hasn't kept him from hopping about and prodding the players into constant activity.

While enjoying a brief squat on the bench, away from the scorching Florida sun, Frisch spied Mickey Owen out in the outfield slouched in a comfortably lazy posture and immediately let out a roar. When Mickey came in on the dog trot he got a good dressing down, punctuated with typical Frischian phrases.

"What an example for our rookies," Frisch yelled. "The great Mickey Owen, the famous Cardinal catcher, the pepper-pot of the infield, asleep on his feet, loafing as a fly-shagger. Grab a mitt and catch some one, and get a move on you." Mickey got a move on him.

Old Os', Survivor of Two Quakes, Not Disturbed By Tribe's 'Rep'

By GEORGE KIRKSEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW ORLEANS—Oscar Vitt has survived two earthquakes only to wind up as manager of the Cleveland Indians. Some observers believe the 1906 San Francisco quake and the 1932 Los Angeles convulsion, both of which Vitt came through unscathed, are only mild tremors in comparison to his present predicament.

But the Indians' reputation as the best poker playing team in the majors, the biggest bunch of loafers on the field and the hardest gang to corral into their bunks at night doesn't bother Vitt a bit. Neither does the fact that Roger Peckinpaugh was fired as Cleveland manager in 1933, Walter Johnson in 1935, and Steve O'Neill in 1937.

Sitting in one of the hottest spots in baseball, Vitt has taken hold of his job with such irrepressible enthusiasm and dogged determination that scoffers would have their eyes peeled back to their eyebrows to see how "Old Os" is going about his work of transforming the Indians into a hustling, hard-working, "They-can't-lick-us" ball club.

One of his first edicts was to ban all poker and dice games. He has no rule about retiring at night but he's watching with interest those players who can't get home by midnight.

"Any athlete who isn't in bed by midnight doesn't know enough to play baseball," says Vitt. "I feel sure all our real ball players will see fit to get their rest."

As for hustle, Vitt has plenty to say:—"Any ball player who ever quits on that field will hear from me. That's my No. 1 rule. I can forgive a lot of a player who gives everything he's got on the field. If there was a time when Cleveland was considered lazy, that day is gone for good. Any player who plays for 'Old Os' never quits".

One of the first problems confronting Vitt when he took over the Indians this spring was the case of "Rollicking Rollie" Hemsley, playboy catcher. The third time Hemsley broke training rules, Vitt sent him home.

"I'll handle Hemsley the way I see fit," says Vitt. "I won't give up on him until Oct. 3, and I expect to get a lot of good catching out of him."

Vitt, who played third base for the Detroit Tigers in the heydey of Ty Cobb from 1912-18, has a two-year contract at a reported $15,000 per year. He stepped up to his major league chance after winning the International league pennant by 25½ games with the Newark Bears and grabbing the little World Series after losing the first three games to the Columbus Red Birds.

Admitting that he regards the Yankees and Tigers as the league's top teams, Vitt is alive to the tremendous possibilities of the Indians.

"We're not conceding anything to anybody," says Vitt. "I like this club fine. We have some things to get straightened out all right. My main problem is to get a smooth-working infield.

COATES KAYOES FOE

PAUL DEAN STUNG BY BEES IN COMEBACK ATTEMPT

By HENRY McLEMORE

BRADENTON, Fla. — It was an ideal setting for a comeback. The sun was bright and warm, the sky a dazzling blue, and thousands of the folk who knew and liked him were pulling for him to make good.

Only one thing was missing to make it a perfect day for Paul "Daffy" Dean, and that was his lack of anything to make a comeback with.

Even those first two innings when the Boston Bees didn't get a run off him, didn't fool me any. Paul wasn't the same Paul who came bounding up from the bushes in 1934 to win 30 games and then "dog" the ball past the Detroit Tigers for two victories in the world series.

His fast ball was his money ball then, just as it was in 1935, when he won 19 more. He hasn't made more than three or four throws yesterday when it became obvious that his arm injury had cost him his pay pitch. All he had was a slow, side arm curve, and it was delivered with timidity. You could almost feel him worry every time he wound up and let the ball go.

But it was the third inning that revealed young Dean's helplessness. The Bees butchered him that round, hitting everything he threw up to the plate for nine runs. He had little or nothing on the ball.

When the side finally was retired, I slipped out of the press box and followed him to the clubhouse. It was empty when we boarded it and Paul slumped down on the bench in front of his locker.

* * *

FINALLY Paul broke the silence. He looked up and remembering me from last spring said:

"Durn, I'm tired."

I asked him if his arm hurt him—if the bothersome kink came back.

"No it just got tired. Awfully tired. I couldn't hardly wind it up it was so worn out."

Did he think the strength would come back?

"Don't know. Can't tell. Sho' wish it would, though."

FRANCE'S ARMY OF 8 MILLIONS SET TO FIGHT

Nation, Hit by Invasions Twice In 68 Years, Won't Be Caught Off Guard.

(Editors Note Along the eastern border of France stretches the strongest line of forts in the world. Behind the forts stands what experts still consider the best army in Europe. Ralph Heinzen, Paris bureau manager of the United Press, describes in the following dispatch how France is preparing for the war that many European statesmen consider to be inevitable.)

By RALPH HEINZEN
(UP Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—Eight million Frenchmen are ready today to seize rifles and burrow into "catacomb forts" to defend the soil of France.

This nation, ravaged twice by invasion in the last 68 years, has armed to the hilt. She does not intend to become the battleground of the next world war if steel and men and military ingenuity can prevent it.

More than half of every franc collected in taxes is turned over to the army, navy, and air force. Despite the swift changes in military strength because of the rearmament race, France's army still is judged by experts to be the best in Europe The fear that haunts every Frenchman is another invasion from the east. Out of that fear has developed the Maginot line, a $400,000,000 system of underground forts that guards every inch of the northern and eastern frontiers, except a narrow strip opening on the Swiss valleys.

Counts on Britain.

Against land attack, France considers herself impregnable. She counts on her own and the British navy to guard her coastline. Like all nations on the crowded continent of Europe, she is vulnerable to air attacks That is why the general staff has taken extraordinary precautions to protect the civilian population of Paris and other cities against air attack

Thousands of men are working today building roads leading out of the gates of Paris, wide enough to accommodate eight lines of automobiles Using those roads the 3,000,000 inhabitants of the capital could turn Paris into a deserted city within a few hours.

Air raid cellars have been built in courtyards of the foreign ministry, the ministry of war and all other important government buildings France, if attacked, could maintain an underground government indefinitely.

War materials factories, once concentrated in a 10-mile belt around Paris, have been decentralized and located in 100 cities.

As this dispatch is written, 20,000 young men—clerks salesmen, office workers—are preparing to go underground to brush up on their knowledge of the mazes of the Maginot line.

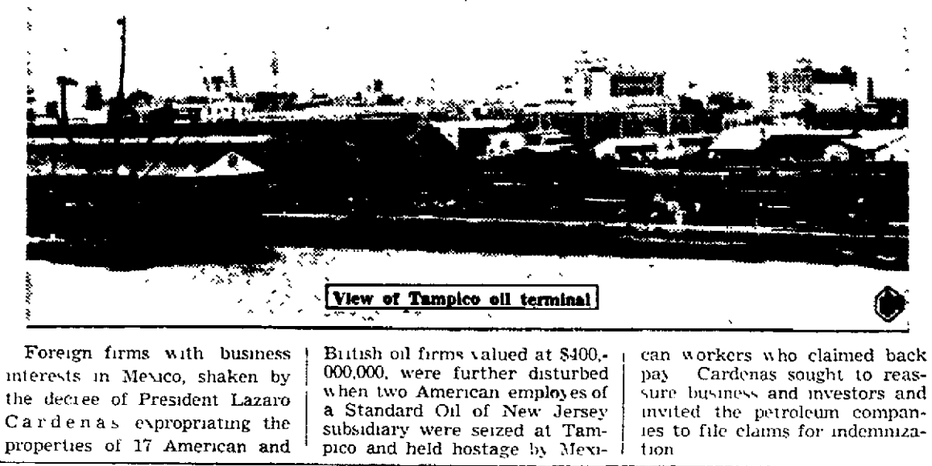
Has African Aid.

France also can draw on a huge pool of black native fighters from her African colonies and can equip them with the largest stock of ammunition any army ever had in reserve Ten million rounds of shells for light and heavy artillery are buried near the border

Afloat France probably still has the best navy of any continental nation, but Italy rapidly is catching up with her Strong in light cruisers, France also leads the world in the number of submarines

Seek Release of Oil Men Held In Mexico

President Cardenas



View of Tampico oil terminal

Foreign firms with business interests in Mexico, shaken by the decree of President Lazaro Cardenas expropriating the properties of 17 American and British oil firms valued at $400,000,000, were further disturbed when two American employes of a Standard Oil of New Jersey subsidiary were seized at Tampico and held hostage by Mexican workers who claimed back pay Cardenas sought to reassure business and investors and invited the petroleum companies to file claims for indemnization

SWIFT AND COMPLETE CURE FOR COMMON COLD, DOCTOR CLAIMS

LONDON—(INS)—A new swift and complete cure for the common cold has been claimed by a young British doctor

He is Dr Micheal Elyan, of Hanwell, a west-London suburb, who claims his cure takes effect in thirty-six hours

The drug Dr Elyan uses for his cure is one of the sulphanilamide group, and in a letter to the British Medical Journal he states he has obtained "dramatic" results

"During the past seven years," Dr. Elyan writes, "I have experimented with every new treatment in an endeavor to find a cure for the common cold

"I long ago came to the conclusion that for a remedy to be of value in the treatment of this condition it must.

1. Be simple to administer
2. Act within 24 hours
3. Not restrict or inconvience the patient, and
4. Prevent the unpleasent sequelae of nasal catarrh, cough and expectoration.

"I began to try out the treatment three months ago on members of my own family

"The results were dramatic, so I proceded to treat patients in my practice, and have to date treated just over 100 cases within the first 48 hours of developing a cold.

"The infections were of varied nature—rhinitis (inflammation of the nose, laryngitis, cough, etc.—some with slight pyrexia (feverishness) and some with gastric disturbance.

"In all cases the results were swift, positive, and in those cases treated in the prodromal (early) stage, most dramatic.

"The colds were aborted and sequelae prevented

"I have not one failure to record so far."

Other British medical authorities consulted agreed that sulphanilamide is valuable for the purpose, but said it should be used with caution.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

PREACHER USES TAVERN PULPIT

'Dead Horse Inn' Becomes Place of Worship; Beer 'Business Boomed.

(By United Press)

MARQUAND, Mo—Rev Noel Bremner preacher for the Church of the Nazarene, believes that a mixture of beer and the Bible will bring about the salvation of this Ozark community

When Bremner an itinerant preacher came to Marquand he was unable to find a church where he could conduct revival services

He complained to Murphy Myers proprietor of 'The Dead Horse Inn' a beer tavern near the city limits and Myers told him he could preach in the tavern every night

Since that time Bremner hasn't missed a single evening at the tavern where promptly at 7 30 he hangs out his hand-paintd signs, informing everyone that the tavern is now a church and begins to preach

Patrons of the tavern like it, Myers says and the revival services have proved a real boon to the beer business, as many persons who come for the preaching stay on for a few glasses of beer

There is no rowdyism in the beer hall when the services are going on according to Myers and the beer drinkers all put their glasses under the table or some other place out of sight

There is nothing sacrilegious in preaching in a tavern Bremner says

Jupiter has eight moons

Always under control. Jupiter keeps them traveling in perfect harmony.

A skillful brewer follows Jupiter's example, because without precise control and harmony no beer reaches perfection. Sprouting barley . . . seasoning malt . . . mashing and straining . . . cooking with hops . . . fermenting and ageing—all these complicated operations in the home of BUDWEISER are controlled 24 hours a day by the laboratory.
